

Council postpones building rule decision

The Upland City Council Monday unanimously voted to continue discussion of a controversial planned residential development ordinance to May 19 to allow evaluation of the proposed amendment by a special committee.

Work on the complicated legislation began late last year when the council voted a moratorium on condominium development so city staff would have time to draw up a new set of guidelines.

The moratorium expired Feb. 15 and was not renewed.

The request for continuance came from members of the Upland Chamber of Commerce. The group had an opportunity to study the document in February, but determined additional discussion was needed before making a decision.

Mayor George Gibson agreed further study would be beneficial, and appointed a committee including John Zinda of the city planning commission, Harry Fitzgerald of the Mayor's Advisory Committee, Tony Belletruti of the board of realtors and Bob Williams of the Upland Housing Authority.

The proposed amendment to the city's general plan includes guidelines governing size of units, parking space, recreational amenities, physical construction and setbacks.

It also addresses procedures for the conversion of apartment buildings into condominiums to insure that renters are given an opportunity to buy the unit or obtain other housing, and that standards for converted units may be consistent with those built as condominiums.

In other action the council:

— Narrowly passed a conditional use permit allowing conversion of an existing two-story home at 273 N. Euclid Ave. to a real estate office.

Council candidate A.C. "Chuck" Lawrence and his wife Dorothy applied for the change. Mayor George Gibson and Councilman Bill Bottin opposed the request, citing hopes to "upgrade" Euclid Avenue, keeping it a residential corridor.

Council members Frank Hoover,

John McCarthy and Ina Petokas voted in favor of the project, saying that it would be one means of keeping the physical appearance of the street intact.

"It's better than allowing them to rebuild the offices like boxes with no character at all," said Petokas. "This would preserve the homes on Euclid with some approximate appearance as they had originally."

— Approved construction of 34 one-story office buildings on the south side of Seventh Street, west of Mountain Avenue.

The request was by Laderbel Inc. of Beverly Hills was to build a professional office complex on 8.1 acres across from Spencer Avenue. Offices will be attached in clusters of three or four.

Council members asked that city staff carefully monitor the project to assure it maintains the quality presented at the meeting. Their concern was based on circumstances surrounding another development in the city in which changes were made in original plans without approval of the council.

— Said it would consider extension of city sewer lines to a proposed subdivision in San Antonio Heights, against city policy, to help insure local water supplies would not be affected by the high density of septic tanks.

The subdivision was requested by Crowell/Leventhal Inc. Although San Antonio Heights is county land, the project was referred to Upland as it is within the city's sphere of influence.

Planning Director Bill Young said the county had apparently relaxed its policy of not permitting septic tanks on lots of less than 20,000 square feet. The proposed lots would be 15,000 square feet, below city standards.

In a memo to City Manager Lee Travers, Young said the perpetuation of septic tanks had the potential of severely degrading the water quality in the Upland area, and "makes the city's attempts at growth control seem ludicrous."

But faculty moved at Foothill Knolls

School fire won't disrupt classes

Although administrative staff will be doubling up in spare corners throughout the building, students will be virtually unaffected by the fire this weekend at Foothill Knolls School in Upland.

"It's just going beautifully," said James Smith, principal of the elementary school this morning. "We've had outstanding cooperation from staff, students and parents over the weekend."

Police investigators said remnants of a Molotov cocktail were found in the front office of the school early Saturday morning. The fire gutted several administrative rooms including the front reception area and principal's office, guidance room, teachers' workroom and teachers' lounge. Damage was estimated at $250,000.

"Miraculously, all the students' records were saved," said Smith. Although they were scorched, none of the necessary information was obliterated, and he credited the file cabinets in which the papers were stored with saving the documents.

Battalion Chief Peter Bryan of the Upland Fire Department said while he as yet had no direct suspect leads, the east portion of Upland experienced several possibly related incidents over the weekend.

Similar fire bombs had been tossed at passing cars and some palm trees were set on fire, incidents Bryan said may be connected to the school blaze.

A carnival, scheduled at the school last Saturday, has been postponed to this Saturday. The event, sponsored by the school's Parent-Faculty Forum, will go toward repairing the damage caused by the fire.

"The Center Ring" will run from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Smith will serve as ring master, and games, free entertainment and food will be available. The public is invited to attend.

Staff members displaced by the fire will be distributed throughout the building. The secretary, principal and health office will share a small, windowless room normally used for testing and small group sessions.

The Foothill Knolls fire is the second case involving suspected arson of a local school in less than a month.

Cucamonga School in Rancho Cucamonga lost two classrooms and suffered heavy damage in another two rooms Feb. 20. Investigators said that fire also was of suspicious origin, but have not yet located any suspects.

Smith said current temporary arrangements would be satisfactory through the end of the school year, and expressed the hope a new wing could be built by September.

"It depends how long it takes us to go through the bid process and get started," he said, "but I'm counting on being in by next school year."

Upland parents protest school region changes

Nearly 60 parents, concerned about proposed boundary changes for junior high schools, confronted Upland School District Superintendent George Renworth in a special meeting Thursday.

Roughly 150 students, currently fifth and sixth graders, are scheduled to change schools in the next two years.

Renworth said the boundary switch was necessitated by overcrowding at Pioneer Junior High School in north Upland. He estimated the school's capacity at 850 students, and said there were 898 enrolled as of January.

"With the amount of square footage and classrooms we have, we can house all the youngsters," he said, "but not comfortably."

Upland Junior High has 538 students, with capacity for 775.

Parent Peggy Pruitt said her major concern was the excessive amount of moving the children would experience.

"If this were going to solve the problem, it'd be one thing," she said. "They don't realize how difficult it is for children to make new friends. We've made a point out of not moving so our children would have the same classmates through school."

The parents have contacted Upland attorneys Roger Remlinger and Alfredo Rivas. Both men have children in the district, and volunteered to serve as advisers to the group.

Remlinger said a master educational plan was adopted by the district in 1976, specifying the formation of a parent task force to review all boundary changes.

No such group was consulted in drawing up the proposed changes, and Renworth said that the need was clear enough that he didn't think the committee would be necessary in this case.

Under the proposed plan, approximately 75 students who are currently sixth-graders will attend Upland Junior High next year. The students originally scheduled to go to Pioneer, will be drawn from Sierra Vista, Magnolia, and Sycamore schools.

The following year, another group of students, roughly the same size, will also be sent to Upland Junior High School.

Renworth said the plan called for two phases so students currently attending Pioneer would not be transferred for eighth grade.

The parents plan to approach the board of trustees at the regularly scheduled meeting Tuesday to ask that a new plan be considered.

Remlinger said parents would support temporary classrooms at Pioneer Junior High to take the strain off of facilities.

Club plan endorsed

Upland planners were enthusiastic Thursday as they recommended waiving growth management requirements for the proposed Upland Hills Country Club development.

Matreyek Homes Inc. of Upland, sponsors of the proposed 226-acre planned community, will be the first developer to submit a full environmental impact report on a project to the Upland Planning Commission.

The comprehensive study, conducted by Ultrasystems Inc. of Irvine, presents detailed project specifications and plans.

The project site, located east of Campus Avenue on both sides of 16th Street, will include 556 condominiums lining an 18-hole, par-70 golf course. Golf facilities will be available to the public, as will a cluster of seven or eight shops, a 100-room motel, two restaurants and a mini-convention center. Residents will have access to 20 swimming pools and six tennis courts.

Dream adventure Upland lawyer yearns for life on the high seas

By DINAH ROSE
Staff Writer

Tom Moga either has a dream or he's absolutely crazy.

Comfortably ensconced in the Upland law office he shares with another attorney, Moga is systematically selling off everything he owns.

His house. An 18-foot power boat. Choice property along Foothill Boulevard. His car.

Even his partnership in the firm. And all to finance the sort of adventure only a crazy man would think of. At least that's what some people say.

That dream is to sail around the world in his newly acquired 42-foot schooner, despite the fact he first set foot on a sailboat roughly four months ago.

He joined his buddy, Assemblyman Bill McVittie of Chino and a handful of other friends, on a 10-day jaunt in the Caribbean in November, where he picked up a few of the basics of sailing. Intrigued, he went on to the Club Med in Martinique to polish up on what he had learned.

Shortly after returning home, he took a look at his life and decided it was time to get out.

Moga figures he has a little more reason than most people to adopt a devil-may-care attitude about his life.

Six years ago, at the age of 34, he suffered a massive heart attack that left him in intensive care for three weeks. Outlook for his survival was not bright.

Moga's father died at 52 of a heart attack, and his mother didn't make it through open-heart surgery at 65.

"The heart attack changed my thinking," he admits. "The easiest thing to do in the world is work. I figure I'll do that later, when I'm old."

"Now it's time to try something different."

He bought his boat — the Iwalani — two months ago, and said he had to take a month to learn how to handle her before going out on weekend jaunts.

His send off is planned for June 15, and one of the biggest projects between now and then is finding a five or six man crew to accompany

Captain Moga on his journey.

An article published two weeks ago in the Los Angeles Times about his plans has resulted in Moga being swamped in a barrage of cards, letters and phone calls. Many offer touching wishes of good luck, admiration, and perhaps even a touch of wistful jealousy.

He pulls out a file bulging with the messages.

"Here's one," he says with a smile.

It's a small card with a black cat — for luck — on the front.

"You're doing what most of us just dream about," reads the message in a feminine hand.

Another letter — also from a woman — explains why she had to send her best wishes, even though it might seem forward. The trip seems to reach the dreamer in everyone.

But far more of the correspondence is from people that share the same lust for adventure as Moga. And from those letters he will choose his crew.

"I don't want someone with a lot of experience," he said explaining his criteria. "It'd just be a job to them — not nearly as exciting."

Actually, he said his qualifications are quite simple.

"I just need people who aren't afraid — and who can afford it."

He figures the trip will cost $200 to $300 per month and will last, well — one year, maybe two or three. That is if he decides to come back at all.

So far he's settled on three crew members — his 15-year-old son

Wayne, a Hungarian friend by the name of Otto and another buddy from San Diego.

Between the four, they have only a handful of sailing experience.

Moga has set April 15 as the day he will make final decisions on the crew. He's shooting for a somewhat even ratio, say three men and three women. But it all depends on who applies.

"Why don't you say I'm still taking applications in your story," he said. "I'll consider anyone who's interested."

The crew will get together for the first time the beginning of June to make final preparations on the Iwalani.

Upland attorney Tom Moga will be giving up law books for sails and mizzen masts as soon as he completes plans for an around-the-world cruise in his 42-foot schooner, Iwalani. (Staff photo by Tom Tondee)

Dream comes true for Family Service agency

By LINDA BERGSTEDT
Panorama Editor

The dream of expanded services by the West End Family Counseling Service will be realized in the coming year when the agency moves into the Rancho Cucamonga area.

This information came to light recently during the agency's annual meeting in Aita Auditorium at San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland.

Dr. C. Richard Mitchell, executive director of the agency, told the gathering of board members and friends that the WEFCS had made a special presentation to the West End United Way about the need to expand services into the growing Rancho Cucamonga area.

"We received a 55 percent increase in allocations from United Way and within this is the financial support to do what we've wanted to do for a long time — move into the Rancho Cucamonga area," he said.

"I don't know for sure what the next year will hold," he continued, "but we're going to be doing quality work as a part of a vital, growing organization."

In his annual report, Gus Ramos, board president, also mentioned the satellite service in Rancho Cucamonga, citing the agency's need to expand because of the great influx of population into the West End.

Reviewing the 24-year history of service the agency has given to the West End, he said, "We hope the expectations of the founders will be met with enthusiasm."

During 1979, the total number of patients interviewed grew by over 1,200, representing a 35 percent increase in the number of patient interviews. And this was with a cost reduction, according to Ramos' report.

There are 14 counselors, therapists, psychologists and psychiatrists in addition to Dr. Mitchell who counsel clients through the West End Family Counseling Service. Most of them work on a part-time basis for the agency. The full-time staff also includes an administrative assistant, a secretary and a clerk.

With this staff and expanded hours during 1979, there was a total of 4,724 patient interviews during 1979. Problems faced by the clients included emotional, marital, personal, child oriented and probation. There were 789 children seen in interviews, and 483 individuals took part in group sessions. The average age of the clients was 35 for males and 33 for females. They had an average income of $832 and the average fee collected per visit was $7.32.

"We've had a good year," Dr. Mitchell summarized. "We've come out of the darkness into the sunlight. There was a lot of splendid and tremendous support from those who work with us," he said.

Officers and board members were nominated and elected during the business session with Ramos to serve a second term as president. Serving with him are Joyce Frevert, first vice president; James Draper, second vice president; Mrs. Barney Dagan, secretary; and A.D. Bachtel, treasurer.

Serving a second term as board members for 1980 through 1983 are Mrs. William Deschene, Mrs. Herbert Eisen, Mrs. Freert and Mrs. Lawrence Herber. Beginning their first three-year term on the board are Mrs. Robert Haner, Mrs. Pat Hatcher and Ted Harrison.

Bachtel made a special presentation to Floyd Stork, who joined the board 18 years ago, and Ramos cited Mary Novelli, past president, for completing three terms or nine years of service on the board.

The West End Family Counseling Service is a member of the West End United Way and the Family Service Council of California and the Council of Mental Health Agencies. It is a contract facility for the San Bernardino County Department of Public Health.

'Divide and Multiply' portrays problems of marital separation

The personal problems caused by marital separation and divorce were dramatically portrayed in "Divide and Multiply," a professional play featured as the program for the annual meeting of the West End Family Counseling Service.

Produced by Plays for Living of Southern California, a division of the Family Service Association of America, the drama was introduced by Mrs. J.B. McCarter, board member of the WEFCS.

"In the years from 1965 to 1976, the divorce rate has doubled to one in every two marriages," she said at the session in Aita Auditorium at San Antonio Community Hospital, Upland.

"The story you are about to see may be your story or that of someone close to you," she said.

Plays for Living productions are unique in that no sets or props are used, allowing the viewers to use their imaginations. In this particular drama, a narrator set the scene for the audience, telling that the three women sitting on chairs facing the audience actually were in three separate apartments in a city. She then proceeded to interview the three women, one at a time.

The first is Janice, a married woman with four sons and a great sense of humor.

The second is "Mom," a 59-year-old woman with five children and three grandchildren. She is worried over her daughter's separation from her husband.

The third character is Marilyn, that daughter who also is a neighbor of Janice, the first character. Marilyn is a "woman with three children, separated and I don't know who I am yet. I know I want more than dishwater and diapers. I want more out of life."

As the story unfolds, Marilyn receives a phone call from Mark, her estranged husband, who tells her their son has been hurt in a skateboard accident and is unconscious. He is calling from the hospital.

Marilyn hurriedly calls "Mom" (Olive Jean) to come over to babysit with the baby. She also calls Janice, asking her to stay with the child until "Mom" arrives from across town.

On one side of the stage, "Mom" and Janice get into a deep conversation over Marilyn and Mark's separation.

"I feel responsible for my daughter's broken marriage," the mother says. "I keep telling her we all go through these things. You'll work it out." She feels the couple haven't "tried hard enough" to make things work out.

"You're like all mothers. You're ready for guilt," Janice tells her. "They both tried. I know, but nothing worked."

The scene switches to the hospital and the solarium outside of pediatrics where Marilyn and Mark wait to hear word about their son's condition. They are "at" each other, bickering over the son's accident and their falling apart marriage.

The narrator of the play appears as a medical assistant and talks with them. "Society is out to get you if you're single. Like all problems, they sweep you under the rug," she tells them. "The problems seem twice. Divide the parents and multiply the problems."

She cautions the couple to remember they "don't have a broken home. It's not fair to call them broken. There are some two-parent families that are more broken."

At the conclusion of the play, the young husband says to his estranged wife, "We do have a family, don't we? Nothing can change that."

Referring to the play at the conclusion of the meeting, Dr. C. Richard Mitchell, executive director of WEFCS, said, "If we can keep our humor through this, we can find some answers in the long run."

County office now in new location

V. Dennis Wardle, county clerk of San Bernardino County, has announced that the division of marriage licenses, passports, and naturalization of the county clerk's office has moved from its location on the fifth floor of the Courthouse to the second floor of the Hall of Records, 172 W. Third St., San Bernardino.

Persons needing marriage licenses, passport information or applications, and forms for naturalization should obtain them at the new location, which is located on the east end of the building, next to the vital statistics section of the recorder's office.

Cheerleaders, songleaders elected at Alta Loma High

Cheerleaders and songleaders for 1980-1981 have been elected at Alta Loma High School.

Starting with this election, a new plan will be followed. Those just elected will serve from the start of spring sports (now) until the start of spring sports in 1981. Rather than serve for one school year, they will, from this point on, serve parts of two school years.

Elected as varsity cheerleaders were Suzi Collier, Tiffany McNeil, Judy Owen, Arleen Papal, Linda Smith and Leighann Troxel.

Serving as varsity songleaders will be Connie Bader, Lisa Gray, Pam Krause, Sherry Manis, Lynn Pierick and Ronda Proctor.

Junior varsity cheerleaders will be Donna Allen, Debbie Amato, Mynette Dufryne, Bonnie Gavel, Kim Greene, Cheryl Niemann and Angela Welch.

Apartment gardeners use dwarf fruit trees

Condominium or apartment dwellers as well as homeowners with limited planting areas can delight in picking fruit from their very own fruit trees. Especially made for those with limited gardening space are dwarf fruit trees. Now that we have taken care of one problem — available space — the next major decision is all yours. And that decision is which kind of fruit tree to plant!

Dwarf fruit trees represent an excellent solution for the home garden. Not only do they take up less room than the standard sized trees but they also afford you more trees in greater varieties to be grown. They start bearing fruit at an earlier age, lend themselves to easy care and because of their size pruning, harvesting, and spraying is made easier for you the gardener. You should also take note that only the overall size of the tree is dwarf but not their delicious fruit!

Your local member of the California Association of Nurserymen will have a selection of dwarf fruit trees available now during the fare root season. You'll find the varieties best suited for your area at your local nursery. Just remember that what does well in one part of the state may not necessarily be well suited to another.

County offers free measles vaccinations

To help prevent an outbreak of measles this spring, the San Bernardino County Public Health Department is offering free measles immunizations for children.

Children between 15 months and 18 years old who have never been immunized; have never had measles; or were immunized before January, 1969, are eligible.

Parents wishing to have their children vaccinated against measles or other childhood diseases, including mumps, rubella (German measles), diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus and polio, may bring their children to any of three clinics in the West End. No appointment is necessary, but immunization records should be brought.

The clinics include: the Ontario Health Center, 325 E. C St., Ontario, on the first and third Mondays of each month from 9-11 a.m. and from 1-2 p.m.; and the second Wednesday of the month from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.; in Chino at 13260 Central Ave. on the second and fourth Mondays of each month from 9-11 a.m.; and at the Cucamonga Neighborhood Center, 9791 Arrow Highway, Cucamonga, on the third Wednesday of each month from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

YMCA offers spring program

Working parents are well aware of the special inconveniences that Easter vacation brings. Children are out of school and parents are at work.

Even if you find someone or someplace that can care for your kids while you are at work, you need to be sure that the children are safe and have a good time and that you don't spend all of your hard-earned money.

The YMCA can help in all of these areas through an Easter Fun Club program. This program runs five days from March 31-April 4, from 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. with extended care from 7-8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. with extended care from 7-8:30 a.m. and 4:30-6 p.m. available. The children are supervised by trained counselors and can take part in sports, games, swimming, cookout, overnight, Disneyland trip, Easter Egg Hunt at Bonelli Park, arts and crafts.

A fee is charged. Registration begins March 14 on a first-come, first-serve basis. For more information call the 'Y' at 623-6433.

Volunteers requested by YMCA

The central branch of the Pomona Valley YMCA is planning its Fun Club once again for Easter vacation, March 31-April 4. The Y is looking for interested and qualified people who would be willing to give a part of themselves to the kids who participate in the Fun Club program. The positions are available on a strictly volunteer basis and represent an opportunity to continue working in the YMCA Summer Day Camp Program.

Program leaders and counselors, at least 16 years of age with a willingness to learn new skills, should stop by the YMCA at 350 N. Garey Ave., Pomona. For more information, call the Pomona YMCA at 623-6433 or stop by and ask for Doug Grimm.

Symposium to focus on child abuse

A major West End symposium on child abuse will be held March 22 from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Montclair Community Center.

The community center is located behind the Montclair Civic Center at 5111 Benito Street, at Benito Street and Fremont Avenue.

Seven separate workshops conducted by medical, legal and psychiatric experts in child abuse will be featured at the symposium.

In addition, a film festival and accompanying displays and exhibits will be presented throughout the symposium and pamphlets and booklets will also be available.

The event is being sponsored by The Firehouse — Montclair's community and social service counseling center.

Among the experts who will participate in the symposium:

— San Bernardino County Superior Court Judge Clifton L. Allen will speak on "The Legal Implications of Child Abuse."

— Dr. Guy Hartman, a pediatrician in the Kaiser-Permanente Medical Program at Fontana, will speak on "Medical and Physical Indicators of Child Abuse."

— Diane Bonilla, a Claremont Unified School District counselor who holds a master's degree in social work, will speak on "The Dynamics of the Abusive Family."

— Fred Drury, youth services coordinator for the Montclair Police Department and a licensed therapist who holds a master's degree in marriage-family-child counseling, will speak on "Investigating Child Abuse."

— Tom Johnson, an Accredited Certificated Social Worker, employed by San Bernardino County child Protective Services, will also speak on "Investigating Child Abuse."

— Tom Brown, who holds a master's degree in marriage-family-child counseling, and Dolly Basso, a pediatric nurse practitioner (P.N.P.), will speak on "Identification and Neonatal Follow-up for At-risk Newborn Team."

FANT)

— Norma Gifford, Ph.D., a clinical psychologist and a member of the San Bernardino County Department of Mental Health's Child Sexual Abuse Treatment Program, will speak on "Sexual Abuse and Incest."

For more information, or to register for the symposium, call the Montclair Firehouse at 624-8056.

Adelines' songfest scheduled

The annual quartet and chorus competitions of Region 21, Sweet Adelines Inc., will be held March 21 and 22 in Gardiner Spring Auditorium, Chaffey High School campus, Ontario.

The Inland Empire Chapter of San Bernardino with 84 members will host the event that begins at 7 p.m. on March 21 and at 12:30 p.m. on March 22.

At the close of the Saturday afternoon performance and as first place winners of the 1979 competition, the Inland Empire Chapter will perform.

Over 1,000 members including groups from the Pomona Valley Chapter of Sweet Adelines will compete from Southern California, Arizona, New Mexico and El Paso, Texas.

Competing on the first day from the Pomona Valley Chapter will be the "Pied Pipers" with Doreen Keepers, Muriel Zimmerman, Maryellen Hestwood and Robin Ring, and the "Sounds Great" with Glenda and Sue Lee, Joyce Waters and Dee DeFrank.

The contests and the Show of Champions at 8 p.m. March 22 are open to the public. Tickets can be purchased at the box office during the competition or in advance by calling 689-3572.

School science texts displayed

The new science texts chosen by the Ontario-Montclair School District will be on public display in the board room at the Education Service Center until April 11. The new texts include the Addison-Wesley elementary science program for kindergarten through sixth grade, and Silver Burdett's "Earth Science" for grades seven and eight.

8 seek nominations for McVittie's seat

By DON GREEN
Staff Writer

Three Democrats, a Republican and a Libertarian took advantage of an extended deadline to seek nominations in the 65th Assembly

District, and 21 candidates are running two seats being vacated on the county board of supervisors.

Filing closed Wednesday for offices in which the incumbents did not return nomination papers.

Democrats Jim Cramer of San Antonio Heights, county district attorney; Ken Willis of Upland, executive director of the Baldy View Chapter of the Building Industry Association, and Harold Katzman of Ontario, a substitute teacher and student, returned their nomination papers this week.

The extended filing period for the June primary followed announcement last week that incumbent Democrat Bill McVittie had received an appointment to Superior Court bench in Los Angeles County.

Also taking advantage of the extended filing period were Republican Nelson Gentry, a Montclair city councilman, and Libertarian David Eloff of Ontario, a computer operator.

Both had declared their intention to seek the Assembly post during a filing period that closed in February, but did not return their nomination papers until this week.

Three Republicans had already returned their nomination papers. They are Pomona Mayor Charles Bader, a businessman; Michael McGehee of Upland, a businessman, and John Ridley of Pomona, a businessman and engineer.

Eleven candidates returned nomination papers in the first district, covering the desert area. They are: James Bellomy, a Barstow city councilman; John Byers of Yermo, a rancher and businessman; Howard Carmichael of Hesperia, an educator; Dan Corcoran of Twin Peaks, a businessman.

Also, "Sarge" Hall of Paradise Valley, a mine operator; Hastell Hollis of Adelanto, a retired university professor; Daniel Jeff of Apple Valley, a sheriff's sergeant; Dick Jones of Joshua Tree, a businessman; John Joyner of Big Bear Lake, a "tax reduction advocate"; John Lovett of Phelan, legislative field deputy, and Bob Older of Oro Grande, a rancher.

Ten candidates returned paper in the third district, which includes Redlands and Yucaipa. They are: Tom Cahraman of Yucaipa, adult school principal; Charles Demirjyn, a Redlands city councilman; Dennis Johnson of Highland, businessman; Eve Kraft of Yucaipa, director of a water district.

Gold Seal students named at Chaffey

The follow Chaffey High School seniors qualified for life membership in CSF at the close of first semester 1979-80 and are now entitled to a Gold Seal on their diplomas:

Lisa Bassi, Randy Bendel, Mary Carpenter, Donna Danke, Jeannie Gifford, John Hsu, Michele Johnson, Shelly Lewis, Carol Ling, Kathryn Martin and Taffatha Maxwell.

The following seniors must qualify for CSF at the close of this second semester 1979-80 in order to become Life Members and receive the Gold Seal:

Laura Coward, Jenny Edwards, Shawn Fremlin, Michelle Lee, Leonard Scandura, Joe Skowronski, Karen Smith, Cheri Snell, Pamela Tucker, Lora Vestal and Mary Wilson.

To qualify for the Gold Seal on the diploma, a student must have been a member of CSF in at least four of the last five or six semesters (based upon grades earned in sophomore through seniors years). One semester of CSF membership must have been earned during one of the last two semesters prior to completion of graduation requirements. A student completing high school work in four semesters must have earned CSF membership in at

Imagination sparked with arts program

This year there's something new in education at the Ontario - Montclair School District - a Multi-Arts program that features combined instruction in art, music, poetry, drama and dance.

At a recent Multi-Arts workshop at Monte Vista Elementary School, teachers, administrators and members of the community participated in a series of "artistic experiments" that were especially designed to use as many of the human senses as possible, plus a lot of imagination.

This unique educational program to foster student creativity is directed by Syd Brown, and is guided by seven teachers throughout the school district. The teachers visit every fourth, fifth and sixth grade classroom for one hour each week.

This "multi-modal" approach to education is important, said Multi-Arts teacher Gary McGuire. "Because we're influenced in our everyday lives by what we see and hear. A lot of what we do comes from what we see and hear in the arts around us."

The Multi-Arts program began in September of 1979 with the expectation that students who could learn to express themselves and understand artistic expression could better cope with life.

3 Alta Loma band members given honors

Three Alta Loma High School students have earned recognition for their musical talents this current school year. They are Elisa Hatch and Kevin Hunley, seniors, and Paul O'Hearn, junior.

Hatch, who plays the clarinet, has been selected to the San Bernardino County Honor Band, and she has earned membership in the First Chair Honor Band at Cal State Los Angeles. From all students who hold first chair positions in local high school groups, Cal State selects only those top ones for their band. In 1978-79, she made District Honor Band, County Honor Band, Southern California Honor Band, and All State Honor Band.

Hunley, flutist, has been named to the County Honor Orchestra for 1980. This follows his membership in the District Honor Band and County Honor Band in his junior year.

HUNTING FOR SOMETHING!

Most likely, you'll find it in Classified.

Grand jurors sought

Superior Court Pre-siding Judge Roy E. Chapman is encouraging interested citizens to volunteer for grand jury duty beginning July through June 30, 1981.

Grand jurors conduct investigations of, and submit reports on county government operations as well as hear information on certain criminal investigations; and to issue indictments.

"Serving as a grand juror involves an average of three full working days a week," Chapman said. Grand jurors receive $10 a day, plus mileage and meals associated with service. They meet regularly in San Bernardino.

A Grand Juror must be at least 18 years old, a United States citizen and a resident of the state and San Bernardino County for one year prior to the appointment. Potential grand jurors are also required to possess sufficient knowledge of the English language, be in possession of their natural faculties, or ordinary intelligence, sound judgment and fair character.

From a list of 30 nominees submitted by the Superior Court judges, 19 grand jurors are selected by lot. Superior Court judges may select nominees from volunteers or by direct nomination of persons known to a judge to be qualified. All nominations are screened and prospective nominees interviewed by the judge.

Chapman said the judges "have been extremely pleased at the number of individuals who have volunteered for service over the past several years. In the past four years, 58 percent of those who have served were volunteers."

Interested citizens should call 383-1608 for further information or to obtain a copy of an application and questionnaire which must be returned completed by March 31.

Questionnaires may also be obtained from the Superior Court at the county courthouse, 351 North Arrowhead Ave., third floor, San Bernardino.

Mexican consulate will speak at school meeting

A representative of the Mexican Consulate will speak at the Tuesday, March 25 meeting of the Ontario-Montclair School district Title VII Bilingual Program at 7 p.m. in room 2 at the Central School, located on the corner of G Street and Sultana Avenue in Ontario. The representative will discuss the importance of the 1980 Census to the Hispanic population in the United States.

Agriculture department reports crop damage

The rainstorms of February and March have caused heavy crop loss estimated at $1.1 million the Department of Agriculture reports.

Milk production loss is estimated at about $700,000. Muddy conditions in corrals prevent dairy cows from getting sufficient rest, and affects their ability to produce milk.

Strawberries, alfalfa and citrus crops also sustained damage.

made numerous tours from coast to coast. Well-known throughout Southern California as the owner of a Pomona Music Store, teacher and lecturer for the past 35 years, he is most recently acclaimed for his monthly workshops which attract piano teachers and students throughout the area. Mr. Pierce was also instrumental in the establishment of the Claremont Community School of Music, and has served as president of the board.

Delta Theta Chi

Upsilon Chapter, Delta Theta Chi Sorority will meet March 27 at the home of Nina Wee and Blanche Knutson in Upland.

Delegates to the Alcyone Province Spring Board meeting on April 13 will be chosen and arrangements will be made for members to attend the Annual Spring Brunch at the Sheraton Universal Hotel.

Members who cannot be at the chapter meeting are asked to call Karen Britten at 981-6486.

Theater trips

The Claremont Human Services Department has tickets available for the Ontario Civic Light Opera's second production, "Oklahoma!" Rogers and Hammerstein's exuberant story of love and rivalry between farmer and cattleman in the boisterous pioneer days of the Oklahoma land rush, is one of the most celebrated musicals of all time.

Matthew Sullivan will be featured as "Curly" a handsome young cowboy out for the love of "Laurey" played by Kathryn Sari. Benna Munger, a Claremont resident will also be in the cast for the production.

Front orchestra seats for the April 19 performance are available at the Claremont Human Services Department, in Memorial Park, 840 N. Indian Hill Blvd., for $5.75 each. The production will be staged at Gardiner Spring Auditorium in Ontario at 8:00 p.m. For more information, please call 624-4531, extension 275.

Day at the races

Claremont Human Services Department is sponsoring a "Day - At - The - Races" at the Santa Anita Race Track in Arcadia, on Thursday, April 3.

There is reserved seating in the Club House Loges where beverage services is available and food is served nearby. The price of admission, reserved seating and round trip bus transportation is only $6.50.

The bus will leave at 10:15 a.m. from Memorial Park. Register early at 840 N. Indian Hill Blvd. Come early and meet everyone and enjoy coffee and donuts before the bus departs for a great day at the races!

For further information, please call 624-4531, extension 275.

New Zealand film

"Certainly New Zealand will be the next great tourist discovery," says Kenneth Richter, world traveler, photographer and lecturer, who will present his all-color film "Discovering New Zealand" at Citrus College Auditorium at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Richter makes his prediction with a great deal of authority — he has visited 80 countries so far in his business of producing travel films.

Tickets for "Discovering New Zealand" are on sale now at Citrus College Auditorium Box Office, open week-day afternoons. They may also be purchased the evening of the performance. Admission is $3 for adults and $1.50 for students and senior citizens. "Discovering New Zealand" is one of the films in Citrus College World Tours 1979-80 series.

Alumni Association Dinner

A festive evening is planned for an Alumni Association Dinner for all alumni of Mt. San Antonio College on Monday at the Industry Hills Conference Center. Co-sponsored by the association and the associated students, the meeting is designed to re-organize the Association and set up a new Alumni Association Executive Council.

All MSAC Alumni are cordially invited to the dinner to renew old friendships, to meet the new and soon-to-be alumni, and to learn what the college is doing and has planned for the future.

Through the generous donations of the Associated Students, the tickets for the evening will be only $7.50 per person and may be ordered from the Associated Students Business Office at the college. Checks for dinner reservations should be made payable to the MSAC Alumni Association.

Faculty, staff, and current students will present an update on the college and a preview of the association's goals to help students and the college community. A brief slide-tape presentation on community college activities and services, and entertainment provided by the college's music department are also scheduled for the evening.

Star show planned

"Northern Lights - The Auroras" will be the topic of three free one-hour shows at Citrus College Planetarium in April. Identical shows will be presented at 7 p.m. on April 10, 17 and 24. There will be no show April 3, spring vacation.

Kent Miller, who teaches astronomy in the evening program at Citrus College, will present the shows that deal with the phenomenon known as aurora borealis, where streamers or arches of light appear in the sky at night, especially in the arctic region.

Citrus College Planetarium shows are especially popular with families. The Planetarium is a beehive-shaped building located in the northeast section of the campus.

For additional information, call Citrus College Community Services Office, (213) 335-0521 or (714) 599-8339, extension 210.

Beginning organ offered

A course in beginning organ playing is now being offered at Citrus College each Monday evening from 7:00 to 10. The course is a non-credit, community education offering. There are no fees charged, and registration is held in the classroom, Room 131 of the Music Building.

Instructor of the course is Bonney Jean Baker who is a professional musician and who has taught organ classes in the adult education programs in the Azusa, Glendora and Tri-Community districts.

The course, which began March 17 and runs through June 23, will include organ techniques, music reading and theory. "Since the primary goal of this class is organ

Aerobic Dancercise

Dance — and shape up while you're at it. Dancercise is a fun and easy aerobic exercise program. Your muscles become stronger and your body will be more flexible with improved balance and awareness.

Dancercise classes will be held at the Pomona Valley YMCA Monday, Wednesday and Fridays from 11 a.m. to noon, and on Tuesdays and Thursdays from noon to 1 p.m. Call 623-6438 for information and registration.

Adult School's spring session is now being conducted at the adult school office, 180 E. Mission Blvd., Pomona.

The office is open Mondays through Thursdays from 8 a.m. to 7:30 p.m., and on Fridays from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., according to Joyce Bishton, adult school principal.

Community classes to be offered during the spring session, March 17 to June 10, include art, band, china painting, needlecrafts, Lamaze (Expectant Parent Education), home gardening, florists' techniques, and clockwork.

classes include instruction in such courses as contractor's exam preparation, auto mechanics, upholstery, welding, woodworking, machine shop, and cosmetology.

Parent education classes meet in various Pomona and Diamond Bar locations, such as Philadelphia United Methodist Church, Northminster Presbyterian Church, and the Children's Services Center at Casa Colina. A new class, bilingual bicultural parent education, will be taught in Spanish. In addition to these community classes, adult school maintains full programs at Towne Avenue Office Training Center, 206 N. Towne, and the PAL Programmed Assistance Learning Lab, 180 E. Mission Blvd., for high school required courses and adult basic education. Mrs. Bishton said. English as a second language classes meet in 15 school and community locations throughout the city.

Political participation

If you are a politically active person or would like to become politically active, Chaffey College has a very special course just for you.

Political Participation is a class which will provide participants with the opportunity to intern in either the Republican headquarters in Upland or the Democrat headquarters in Ontario during the June campaign.

The focus will be on the 65th Assembly district, according to instructor Charlie Miller, but they will not ignore the Congressional district either.

The participants will meet to learn about the electoral college, election laws and campaign procedures from various experts working in local political headquarters. Each student will then choose a precinct in either the Republican or Democratic headquarters to work for, and will go out and register residents to vote and become active in all the before-the-primary telephoning and organizing.

March 24. New students must fill out an application at any one of five local sites: the Corona - Norco Education Center at 5th and Hammer in Norco; the Fontana Learning Center at 8266 Sierra; the Rancho Cucamonga Vocational Skill Center at 9375 Feron Avenue; the Chino Center located at Chino High School, 5472 Park Place; and the Alta Loma campus at 5885 Haven Avenue, and then will be given an appointment to register for classes.

Job Improvement

A free weekend workshop on Job Improvement will be conducted at Chaffey College on Friday, May 9 from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m., continuing on Saturday, May 10 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

In this workshop participants will learn how to prepare for job changes, both in their current or new companies, what people need to know about themselves and the job market in order to make successful job improvements. Other topics will include stress management and one-the-job communication skills.

Interested persons may register for this Job Improvement workshop on the evening of May 9 when class begins.

The class offers one unit of college credit, or can be taken for non-credit. There is no fee for this class.

For more information about this workshop, please call one of the college's toll-free numbers: 987-1737, 822-4484 or 735-0242, ext. 381.

playing, all efforts shall be directed toward the ultimate goal of a solo performance by each member of the class by the end of the course," said Mrs. Baker. "Generally, the class will have a program toward the end of the semester and the last two or three weeks are then used for a summary," she added.

Holly Near to perform

Singer-songwriter Holly Near will perform with Robin Flower at The Claremont Colleges Sunday, March 30.

The concert will be held at 8 p.m. in Garrison Theater, 10th Street and Dartmouth Avenue. Tickets are $5 ($4.50 for students) and are available at Rhino Records and Folk Music Store in Claremont and The Claremont Colleges Women Center.

Near has six movies and numerous television appearances to her credit and has performed since age 7. She began her career as social activist touring with an anti-war show overseas in 1971.

Her songs have dealt with social movements, ranging from the Vietnam war to nuclear power and women's issues. Much of her present work is women's music: music by women about women's lives.

Childbirth "Lamaze" Class

A "Preparation for Parenthood" class featuring training for childbirth using the Lamaze philosophy as a guide, is being offered in Room 117 at Chaffey High School in Ontario. It will meet for eight weeks from 7 to 9:30 p.m. and the next meeting will be tonight.

This class is designed for women in their last eight to ten weeks of pregnancy and their coaches. There is a $10 fee for materials and students may sign up in the class. For more information, call Chaffey Adult School, 983-2010.

GOP women to meet

East San Gabriel Valley Republican Women's Club Federated will host San Gabriel Valley Republican Legislators at a Silver Anniversary Membership Brunch on Friday, The 10:30 a.m. festivities will be held at the Glendora home of Mrs. Robert Harder.

Legislators who will attend include Senator H. L. "Bill" Richardson, Assemblyman Bill Lancaster and Assemblyman Richard Montjoy.

Membership Chairman Betty Browning announced that charter members will be honored for their 25 consecutive years of membership. All registered Republican women are invited to attend and join, she said.

Chance of being bitten by dogs climbs in spring

An increasing number of school-age children throughout the county are being bitten by dogs running loose on playgrounds and other public properties.

During the spring and fall, the incidence of dog bites tends to increase because children and dogs are playing outside more during the warm and dry spring weather and the cooler fall weather. During these seasons, children are usually wearing less clothing than during the winter, so the likelihood that a dog bite will break the unprotected skin is also higher.

Dr. Mahoney, director of the San Bernardino County Public Health Department, reminds county residents of County Ordinance No. 2100, Section 32.018, which states that pet owners can not allow their animals to "stray or run at large upon any public street, sidewalk, school grounds, public park, playground, place of assembly or any other public place, or any unenclosed private lot or other unenclosed private place, or upon any private place or property without the consent of the owner or person in control thereof." The ordinance also states that "no one may lawfully bring his dog out of his premises or property unless:

— The dog is restrained by a substantial leash not to exceed six feet in length, and is in the charge of a person competent to restrain the dog; or — The dog is under immediate command control of its owner or some other person competent to restrain the dog; or — The dog is properly restrained and enclosed in a car, cage, or similar enclosure.

Obeying the restraint and leash laws will help to decrease the number of dogs running loose. Pet owners with children are especially encouraged not to allow their animals to follow the children to the bus stop or to school.

Besides proper restraint of pets, there are several other measures which can help prevent bites from stray dogs:

— Children playing in areas where dogs are running loose should be well supervised.

— Children should be encouraged not to interact with stray dogs and should not be allowed to tease them.

— Adults observing dogs running loose should notify the Animal Control Program in their area, providing the breed, color, and location of the animal(s). For the city of Grand Terrace and all unincorporated areas of the County, residents should call Animal Control Services of the San Bernardino County Public Health Department. The main San Bernardino Office number is 383-1517 or residents of outlying areas can call the toll-free number 1-800-472-5609. An Animal Control Officer will be sent out to pick the animal(s) up. If a dog bite occurs in spite of these measures, the following steps should be taken:

— Wash wound (if skin is broken) immediately with soap and plenty of water.

— Consult your doctor. Remember to take the victim's immunization record along.

— Report the bite immediately to the Animal Control Office (see phone numbers above) or the nearest Sheriff's Department. The report should include the victim's name, address, age and sex and the animal's description and location. The biting animal will then be picked up and quarantined by the Animal Control Officer.

Ferns need special attention

Ferns, it has been said, are among the oldest known plants on earth. They were well established before the age of dinosaurs, and unlike the giant reptiles, ferns adapted to their new surroundings as the earth climate changed. With such grand past history you may ask why you can't get a fern to grow in your home. Many ferns, such as the Bird's Nest, Boston, Holly, and Rabbit's Foot, can be coaxed to flourish indoors if you pay attention to their needs.

According to Raymond F. Hasek, environmental horticulturist of University of California Cooperative Extension, one of the challenges of growing those ferns indoors is to overcome dry atmosphere by providing them with high humidity. He advises this can be done in several ways: Mist the plant every day with warm water applied with a small hand-held mister; place a humidity tray, a tray filled with pebbles (or gravel), below the pot to provide constant water evaporation; grow the plants in the kitchen or bathroom where humidity is naturally higher than the rest of the house.

Hasek offers these other general fern-growing recommendations: A fern requires filtered light — a north-facing window is a good location — and ventilation.

Avoid placing the fern in direct summer sunlight, as well as stuffy, dark, or drafty places. Its best temperature range is 50 degrees to 70 degrees F.

Water your fern to keep potting mix moist to the touch. Maintain an even moisture supply and good drainage. Do not fertilize it in the winter. In other seasons feed it an all-purpose fertilizer diluted in water.

If your fern is bothered by aphids, scale, and mealy bugs, remove them by dabbing the infected parts with rubbing alcohol or using an insecticide. When using any insecticide on ferns, apply a regular spray or dab the insecticide on to two or three inconspicuous fronds first. Wait five days and if no damage appears on the treated fronds, it is usually safe to treat the entire plant.

It is usually necessary to repot a fern at the start of each growing season. Use soil which is two parts peat moss or sphagnum moss, one part sterilized top soil, or two part vermiculite and one part perlite.

The delicate grace of these fronded plants indoors can provide a lush tropical feeling, an atmosphere of warmth and tranquility, and a boost to your winter weather spirits.

Claremont 'Y' begins campaign

The Claremont YMCA has started its annual sustaining contribution campaign to raise $30,000 for services to youth and their families.

Frank C. Hungerford, Claremont insurance broker, is general chairman for the campaign. Hungerford served as a Claremont city council member from 1972 to 1978. He is a member of the YMCA board and Pomona Valley Juvenile Diversion board.

Serving as division leaders are Gordon T. Curtis, Claremont realtor and member of the city planning commission; Carol Blanshard, secretary of the YMCA board and 43-year volunteer with the American Red Cross; Stephen Hammitt, financial and estate planner; Jess Swick, life insurance specialist, and Gyle Tague, a Claremont Unified School District principal and past president of the Claremont YMCA board.

The sustaining contributions provide one-third of the branch's $102,000 annual budget. The funds raised are used within the branch and are tax deductible, Hungerford said.

Over 2,000 people were provided services through the Claremont YMCA in 1979. Programs include Y-

Outreach activities for youths from single-parent families; Indian Guides, Indian Princesses and Trail Blazers, parent-child programs; vacation day camps; neighborhood backyard swim programs; family health and fitness programs; youth and adult sports leagues; residential camping; after-school clubs and scholarships for needy youth.

This year, the Claremont YMCA has a special project. Hungerford announced. The branch is in the final stages of working out an agreement with the Claremont school district to assume management of the El Roble swimming pool. Included is an option to build a gymnasium, meeting rooms, fitness center and additional recreational facilities on the land adjacent to the El Roble school.

The Y needs additional funds to cover "start-up" costs of operating and maintaining the pool, the campaign committee was told.

In addition to the sustaining contribution campaign, YMCA funds are raised through special events, fees for programs and memberships.

Joe Zakem is director of the Claremont YMCA.

Eugenia Slahor of Palm Springs prepares for Calico's Third Annual Old Miner's Stew Cook-off which will be held Saturday, March 29 at the ghost town. Individuals interested in competing in the event that features cash, trophy and ribbon prizes should contact the County Regional Parks Department at (714) 383-1912.

Somethin's stewin' at ghostly Calico

As spring begins to sweep through the high desert, Calico Ghost Town awakens from its winter hibernation and prepares for its first celebration of the 80's in the form of the Calico Hullabaloo, March 29 and 30. One of the major highlights of this weekend celebration will be the Old Miner's Stew Cook-Off.

The cook-off will feature a maximum of 36 entries preparing their own unique stew recipe over a smoldering fire to be judged by Calico's famed panel of culinary experts who will crown the new Stew-King of the high desert.

Pre-registration for the cook-off is open until March 19, however, interested participants can also register at Calico the morning of the 29th. A $6 entry fee will be charged with all fee's going toward cash prizes. Starting at 10 a.m. each contestant and one assistant will begin to prepare their stews with judging beginning at 3 p.m.

Prizes for this year's contest include certificates for all participants with first place receiving 50 percent of all entry fees and a special stew pot, second place 30 percent of entry fees and two stew cups, and third place receiving 20 percent of entry fees and two stew cups.

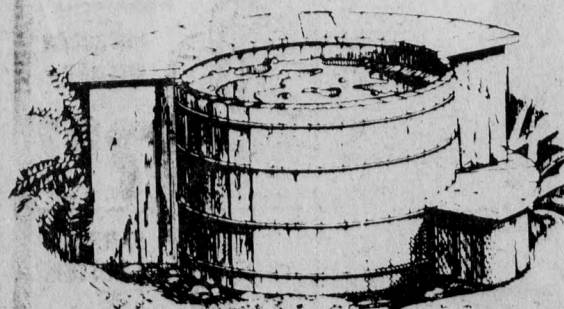

Other major highlights during the weekend will be Calico's Open Horseshoe Pitching Championship for men, women, and juniors and Calico's wild and woolly Tobacco Spittin' Championship.

For a change of pace, musical interludes will be provided by Lightnin' Joe Maphis and Rose Lee, two of country music's all time legends and Dick Tyner and Train 45, one of California's premier bands. For children, there's Calico's daring grease pole climb at 11 a.m. both days. Come see who can claw their way up a slick pole to retrieve the $5 strapped at the top.

A restored silver mining ghost town, Calico is located 10 miles northeast of Barstow via Interstate-15 north to Ghost Town Road exit. Camping is available by contacting Calico at (714) 254-2122.

For more information on the event contact the San Bernardino County Regional Parks Department, 825 East Third Street, San Bernardino, CA 92415, (714) 383-1912.

We're in the barrel.

Due to soaring OPEC oil prices, your electric rates could go up 50% this year.

Soaring OPEC oil price increases hit us all at more places than the gasoline pump. They increase your electric bill, too. To meet air quality standards, Edison is required to burn low-sulfur foreign oil. This low-sulfur oil commands a premium price. Edison expects to buy more than 44 million barrels of this oil to keep its generating plants running in 1980, at a cost of about $1.5 billion.

Back in 1970 oil cost about $2 a barrel and our oil bill was $29 million. Already this year Edison has paid more than $32 a barrel for premium grade, ultra low-sulfur oil. And we're told there will be more increases in the months ahead.

When OPEC prices go up, Edison prices go up. Your electric bill could go up 50% by the end of this year. These electric rate increases coming in 1980 will offset higher fuel costs only. They will not increase SCE profit.

Help get America out of the barrel.

Most of our plants burn oil and natural gas. Last year more than two-thirds of your electricity was generated by oil and natural gas. When we can't get enough natural gas, we're forced to depend on foreign-controlled high-cost oil.

We already make some electricity from nuclear, coal and hydroelectric sources. In addition, we're pioneering solar, geothermal and wind power. Our industrial customers are working with us in energy cogeneration. And we're actively urging conservation.

You can help by conserving, too. Every kilowatt-hour you conserve reduces U.S. dependence on foreign oil.

What you can do: join the Conservation Generation.

It's going to require sacrifice to hold your electric bills in check. It's going to take a change in habits. Here is how you can help yourself and your country:

1. Limit your use of heating and air conditioning.
2. Turn off second refrigerators and freezers if not in use.
3. Use less water where possible because it takes electricity to pump it.
4. Turn off lights in rooms not in use. And use lower wattage bulbs where possible.
5. If you have a swimming pool, cut down the time you run its filter pump.

Also do your heavy household chores in the morning. Your vacuuming, clothes washing, dishwashing and oven baking. And give your appliances the afternoon off. That way you'll be easing the load between noon and 6 p.m. when demand is at the peak.

Write Edison for conservation help.

On request, Edison will provide you with a personally tailored, computer-designed, energy conservation program—called S.A.V.E.S.—that's easy to put into action. You can also write for a free booklet that gives you lots of helpful suggestions on use of air conditioning, heating, lighting, water heating, home appliances and solar energy systems. Write today: Southern California Edison, Conservation, P.O. Box 800, Rosemead, CA 91770.

There's a big job to be done in the years ahead. If you take it easy on the electricity you use—while we work hard to develop domestic ways to produce it—there are bright lights at the end of the tunnel.

Raising bees brings keeper sweet reward

Unlike many hobbies that either take too much time or cost too much money, bee keeping is a hobby that more or less takes care of itself.

According to Upland bee keeper Bill White, keeping a hive of bees doesn't require a great deal of work, since the bees take care of themselves, and gives the bee keeper a return on his investment.

"A person can get their own hive and in the first year they should have enough surplus honey to pay for their total investment," said White. "It's not the kind of hobby that you keep putting money into and get nothing back."

White, who has 300 hives, said he got started when he bought a piece of property in Upland where a Pasadena bee keeper was keeping three hives. At first he wanted nothing to do with the bees.

"I'd never been stung before in my life and I was afraid of bees," said White.

But, White said as he began to watch the bees and watch the bee keeper work the hives, he became fascinated with it and eventually took over the hives.

The bees are now as much a part-time business as they are a hobby for White. But, he explained, "I still try to keep it as a hobby. I don't like to have it involve so much of my time that I have to look at it as a business."

As a hobby, bee keeping is not for everyone, said White, explaining that interest for many people usually wanes after their first bee sting.

The best way for someone to decide if bee keeping is the hobby for them is to go out with a bee keeper and get stung a few times, said White.

"I tell people when they come over and want to buy a hive from me, 'before you even talk about buying go look into a hive and decide if it's what you really want to do,'" explained White.

He added, "It's been my experience that the person will know right away whether they really want bees as a hobby and they'll jump at it."

An individual who wants to keep bees as a hobby, said White, can usually keep one or two hives in a backyard without any problem.

Dickson Hunter of the San Bernardino County Agriculture Commission explained that county ordinance allows for the keeping of up to five hives in residential zones, provided they don't become a public nuisance. Some cities also have ordinances restricting the keeping of bees in residential areas.

White said that most of the trouble with keeping hives in residential neighborhoods stems from people not taking precautions with their hives, or not knowing enough about bees.

To avoid trouble, said White, a

Upland bee keeper Bill White wears a veil of wire screen to protect his face from bee stings while he checks his hives. White says bee keeping is a profitable hobby that doesn't require a large investment of time or money. His 300 hives form a part-time business.

person thinking about keeping a hive in his backyard should check with his neighbors to see if anyone is likely to object. Taking a gift of a jar of honey sometimes will help smooth over objections, he added.

Supplying the bees with water and keeping them in a fenced area where they are not likely to be disturbed will also help to avoid problems, said White.

White said the beginner should read up on bee keeping before setting up a hive or seek out the help of an established bee keeper.

Hunter said it is sometimes difficult for county agricultural inspectors to determine when a hive has become a nuisance, but the biggest problems come from bee keepers who don't take precautions with their hives.

If local ordinances or a lack of space prevent a bee keeper from putting his hives in his backyard, said White, arrangements can sometimes be made with farmers to place hives on their property, said White. Usually the rent for such spots is paid in honey.

In addition to local ordinances, state law requires that all hives must be registered with the local county's agriculture commission.

Hunter explained that the registration is designed to enable agriculture inspectors to isolate outbreaks of disease.

For the beginner, said White, a beehive can usually be put together for less than $100, including about three pounds of bees with a queen from a bee breeder.

The hive consists of a box with 10 frames of bees wax on which the bees build honeycombs. After a hive is established, surplus honey is gathered by placing additional boxes or "supers" on top of the hive.

It's not a good idea to try and take a wild swarm, said White, since capturing wild bees usually requires more skill than the beginner possesses and wild bees can sometimes carry disease.

With a hive established, a bee keeper can expect to extract between 40 and 60 pounds of honey a year, said White.

He added that by placing hives where bees will go after a certain kind of blossom, the bee keeper can change the taste of the honey.

Commercially produced honey is often labelled as orange honey or clover honey when it is primarily made from the nectar of those plants.

Honey can also be produced to have the flavor of eucalyptus blossoms or wildflowers, said White.

And selling surplus honey is usually no problem, said White. He explained that seven years ago he placed one small ad in the newspaper and hasn't had to advertise since.

"Word of mouth is the best advertising there is," said White.

White checks the progress of a new hive. A beehive can usually be put together for less than $100, including about three pounds of bees and a queen bee. A hive produces between 40 and 60 pounds of honey per year. It's possible to control how the honey tastes, White says.

A smoker is used to control bees in active hives. San Bernardino county ordinance allows the keeping of up to five hives in residential zones.

Some cities, however, restrict the keeping of bees in residential areas.

Hobby equipment easy to find

Little cash needed to get started

For the beginner, a bee hive can usually be established for under $100.

Many companies sell bee keeping equipment. Most are mail order companies, but some are listed in the yellow pages of the phone book.

Even some major department stores sell bee keeping equipment through their farm and ranch catalogs.

Hives, which are standard sized, run from between $25 for an unassembled model, to $33 for fully assembled hives. The hive should include 10 frames with wax foundations for the bees to build honeycombs on.

A starter colony of bees, which includes three pounds of worker bees and a queen, will sell for about $22. Since most bees are shipped by mail, it is generally recommended that the post office be notified when a shipment is expected.

The post office usually expedites the delivery of live bees and is only too glad to part company with them.

Once a hive is established, additional hive boxes or "supers" must be placed on the hive for the surplus honey. Supers will generally sell for around $20, fully assembled.

Veils sell for around $11 and helmets to wear with the veils generally sell for around $6.

Although gloves are shunned by experienced bee keepers, beginners will probably need them at first to avoid stings. Gloves will generally sell for around $5 a pair.

The smoker, which is used to control bees when working with a hive, sell for between $10 and $12. In addition, many bee keepers have hive tools, which sell for between $3 and $6, to help them break honeycomb frames loose from the hive.

Since bees are attracted to dark clothing, bee keepers usually wear white coveralls, which sell for $24 up to $37 for a pair with a built in veil.

The beginner can also get more information on hives from books and magazines available at most libraries, or by contacting bee keepers' associations. Locally the associations include the Inland Empire Bee Keepers Association, 9010 Oleander Ave., Fontana 92335; and the California State Bee Keepers' Association, 2114 Westminster Dr., Riverside 92506.

American nun tries to comfort Mexican prisoners

By JACK WILLIAMS
Copley News Service
TIJUANA, Mexico ... F Tank, they call it, the Drug Rehabilitation Center, where bright yellow wires intersect at the door of a locked cell, obscuring the vacant faces and enclosing empty lives.

Two men live there, deep within the fortress that is La Mesa State Penitentiary.

"These are my favorites. They have suffered the most."

The words are those of an American nun, Sister Antonia, whose white habit and warm touch, punctuated by a comforting smile, are as much a fixture here as the guns of prison guards.

These are her children, her sons, she says, thrusting her hands through the cell door to greet them, imparting words of consolation and hope. Consuelo and Esperanza, Sister Antonia's passwords.

The men ... one of whom has spent nine of his 27 years behind bars ... clasp her hands tightly. Smiles momentarily occupy the heavily-lidded vacancy of their faces.

No prisoner, no violator of God's order or man's laws, shall be denied Sister Antonia's sympathy and love.

"In God's eyes we're all just a bunch of kids," she says. "There isn't a man alive without goodness. We're all incredibly good. Incredibly good."

Sister Antonia, 53, a Roman Catholic Sister of Mercy, has lived for most of the last year in a cell of her own, a carraca, in the women's section of the 26-year-old prison on the outskirts of southern Tijuana.

The 5x10-foot enclosure, austere and equipped with a cot, shelves, a small table and two chairs, is her casa, her convent.

"It's all I need," she says. "This is my home and these are my neighbors, every one of them. This is where God has led me. I sleep, eat and live with these people."

"I don't know why God calls me to do this. Perhaps it is because I am able to do something about suffering."

"I tell the prisoners, 'You are not alone here. I have nothing to give you but my life. My life is dedicated to God but I am reaching him through you.'"

"This is not an eight-hour job. It is 24 hours a day, seven days a week."

Sister Antonia says she was granted special permission by the prison and bishops on both sides of the border to establish residence behind the locked gates.

She was born in Beverly Hills. Her family lives in the San Fernando Valley. But for the last 13 years she has been moved to bring God to Mexican prisoners, where she roams freely, never feeling endangered.

She remembers a prisoner's reaction on first seeing her: "What do you know. They've busted a nun."

Sergio Penuelas, the 38-year-old director of La Mesa Prison, welcomes her presence.

"She helps channel the prisoners' energy into the spiritual," he said. "She has a magic touch."

In the evenings, she can be seen playing table tennis with the prison guards on the catwalks.

Often she drives her 1975 Fiat station wagon ... a gift from a friend ... to the homes of prisoners' families, bearing messages and encouragement. When she is called across the border, into the United States, she sometimes spends the night with another nun, Sister Lupe Zuniga, in Chula Vista.

Her Spanish, far from perfect, is sufficient to enable her to communicate

A comforting hand. A reassuring smile. An encouraging word. These are the stock-in-trade of Sister Antonia, an American nun who has lived for most of the past year in La Mesa Penitentiary in Tijuana.

tonia, an American nun who has lived for most of the past year in La Mesa Penitentiary in Tijuana.

readily with anyone south of the border. Language, however, is the last form of communication, she tells you.

La Mesa Prison, which has had a reputation in the past for deplorable conditions and rampant crime and corruption within, is, the sister says, a more peaceful and serene place today. The sister's influence has, perhaps, been instrumental.

Most of the 1,365 inmates, including 85 women, are serving time for drug-related crimes. Only 2 percent are convicted murderers, according to Penuelas. Some 120 hard-core criminals recently were transported to Islas Marias, a penal colony off the coast of Mazatlan. The atmosphere at La Mesa does seem to be changing.

Antonio Solano, the prison's 29-year-old administrator, walks freely with a visitor throughout the grounds, stopping occasionally to chat with an inmate, pointing out the construction projects that will produce a new hospital, pharmacy and records office.

"There was a time I couldn't have done this," he says, strolling through the prison yard without the company of guards. "It was very dangerous then."

The prison was overcrowded and large quantities of drugs, knives and guns seemed to go with the territory. There were internal gang wars, and in June of 1978 the warden and assistant warden were among eight men shot and killed during a riot that erupted in the prison yard. Now security is much tighter.

There has been a crackdown on weapons and drugs, an increase in guards and a reduction of "incidents."

Penuelas, the fifth warden appointed within 30 months when he was named to the post last June 30, has restored a sense of stability.

Jaime Arroyo Flores, the 28-year-old comandante in charge of security, takes pride in the fact that there have been no major uprisings during his tenure, which began in October 1978.

"Be kind, don't rattle my nerves," says a handwritten sign in Spanish on Flores' desk.

In this environment of order and ostensible professionalism, Sister Antonia continues her missionary assignment, befriending prison officials and guards as well as inmates.

An American in his 30s who identifies himself as Friendly Freddie poses for a picture with her and seems unconcerned that his sentence will last 4.5 more months "unless I can come up with $2,000."

"I've been to Terminal Island," he says, "and this (prison) beats anything in the states."

In a separate section where the women inmates live, bundles of laundry are being washed in outdoor basins ... in cold water, by hand.

"There's no hot water for laundry but the blues are bluer, the whites whiter," says Sister Antonia.

Nor is there central heating, she points out.

"But I am never too cold," she adds.

This from a native of Beverly Hills, mind you, whose family ties are in fashionable Granada Hills.

Sister Antonia refuses, however, to talk of her past, saying only that she has only one home ... the prison ... and that she is a member of the Order of Mercy.

without a convent.

What worldly possessions she can obtain are contributed to the prison ... carpets, tables, kitchen materials, beds, clothes, vitamin pills.

She sleeps five hours a night, rising between 4:30 and 5 a.m. to start her day in prayer, rarely going to bed before midnight. She may accompany a woman inmate to a hospital for delivery of a baby, at any hour.

"I'm the most kissed person in the world," she says.

Indeed, she cannot talk to a prisoner, it seems, without engaging in a firm embrace.

"People need to be touched physically 30 times a day," she insists. "Some of my boys who come here ... they've never been touched."

"I am reaching and touching all day long. The guards tell me, 'The hardest felons are like little boys with you.'"

Thinking about taking a class?

Primateology

Each spring, Chaffey College offers a fascinating class in Primateology.

Primateology is the study of living and fossil non-human primates, their origin and diversity, said instructor Edward E. Myers. The study of small monkeys and chimps, can be useful in assessing how human behavior evolved if you assume that men and apes evolved from a common ancestor. Myers explained, "We're not going to draw conclusions for the students. They have to do that on their own. Hopefully, they won't make too large a jump," he said.

This is a credit class which earns students four college credits upon completion. The class will meet from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays beginning April 1.

Other topics which will be covered in this course include the value of living non-human primates in research, their native sites, distinguishing characteristics and relation to other species like the Great Apes.

There is no tuition-fee for this or any other class at Chaffey College. For more information about this class or registration, please call one of the College's toll-free numbers: 987-1737, 822-4484 or 735-0242, ext. 260. For the hearing-impaired, call the special TTY number: 989-7638.

Children's Art, Music

Art for The Teacher of Young Children and Music for The Teacher of Young Children are two spring classes to be offered on Saturdays at Chaffey College.

Many activities, theories and ideas for the pre-school teacher or parent will be demonstrated in this class which will be located at the Children's Center in the newly constructed Vocational Skill Center located at 9375 Feron Avenue in Rancho Cucamonga.

"Join me in singing and creating," instructor Joanna Jones said. She also mentioned that child care may be provided if there are a minimum of five children. The cost would be 75 cents per hour.

The art class will meet from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. on Saturdays and the dance class will meet from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. beginning April 5. Each class offers 2 units of college credit. There is no tuition fee for these or any other classes at Chaffey College. For more information about these classes, please call one of the College's toll-free numbers: 987-1737, 822-4484 or 735-0242, ext. 260. For the hearing-impaired call the special TTY number 989-7638.

Interpersonal communication

Individual growth and self-awareness through Interpersonal Communication will soon be explored in a Tuesday evening class at Chaffey College.

Beginning April 1, this Interpersonal Communication Class will explore the dynamics of communication in building relationships and maintaining them. Registration for classes will be conducted between March 24 and 26. The registration office will be open from 7:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday and from 7:30 a.m. to 3:15 p.m. on Friday.

"Life's peak experiences evolve around effective interpersonal communication and relationship building," according to Dr. John Caputo, who will instruct the class.

Anyone 18 years or older can enroll in classes at Chaffey College for only a $3 health fee per quarter. No entrance test is required for admission to the college. Chaffey College offers vocational training classes, enrichment classes and transfer classes to allow students to graduate to a four-year institution with two-years of full credit.

Applications for admission to the college are now being accepted at five local sites: Corona-Norco Education Center at 5th and Hammer in Norco; the Fontana Learning Center, 8266 Sierra; the Rancho Cucamonga Vocational Skill Center, 9375 Feron Ave.; the Chaffey College Office Chino High School, 5472 Park Pl., and the Alta Loma campus, 5885 Haven Ave.

For more information about the Interpersonal Communication class or admission to the college, please call one of the toll-free numbers: 987-1737, 822-4484 or 735-0242, ext. 260, or for the hearing impaired TTY 989-7638.

Anatomy and physiology

For the first time, Chaffey College will offer a night time course in Human Anatomy and Physiology.

"Everyone needs to know how his body works," according to instructor Dr. Henry E. Childs, Jr. "I work to see that students get this understanding."

The Human Anatomy and Physiology course is a basic survey of the structure and function of human organ systems designed for persons planning to enter any Allied Health profession except registered nursing.

The class will be offered on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 7 to 10 p.m. for 4 units of college credit.

There is no tuition fee for any classes at Chaffey College. Anyone 18 years or older is eligible to attend. Applications for admission are now being taken at the Corona-Norco Education Center at 5th and Hammer in Norco; the Fontana Learning Center, 8266 Sierra; the Rancho Cucamonga Vocational Skill Center, 9375 Feron Ave.; the Chaffey College Office at Chino High School, 5472 Park Pl.; and the Alta Loma campus, 5885 Haven Ave.

Registration for spring classes will be conducted March 24, 25 and 26. Prospective students must apply for admission to the college in order to receive an appointment to register (choose) for classes.

No entrance test is required for admission to the college.

For more information about this class or registration at the college, please call one of the college's toll-free numbers: 987-1737, 822-4484 or 735-0242, ext. 260, for the hearing-impaired, TTY 989-7638.

BPW of Pomona honors Alta Loman

Kathy Hairston of Alta Loma has been presented with the 1980 Member of the Year Award from the Pomona Business and Professional Women's Club.

Ms. Hairston attended Chaffey College and earned a bachelor's degree in business management from Cal Poly Pomona. She joined the Pomona BPW in 1976 and has been an active member.

She has been recording secretary and second vice president. She was Young Careerist chairman for two years and chairman of the press book and public relations committee.

Ms. Hairston developed a brochure explaining to prospective members the objectives of the National Federation of BPW.

The presentation was made in February at Lucier's Restaurant, Pomona, where the club meets each third Tuesday of the month at 6:30 p.m. for dinner.

Zoologists study flood effects on animals around Prado Dam

While many people in Southern California are still digging out of the mud from the last series of rain storms, Dr. Bayard H. Brattstrom and his students at California State University, Fullerton are contemplating the outcome of the next flood.

Brattstrom, professor of zoology, is working under a $18,000 contract with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to determine the effects on the environment around the Prado Dam and Mentone in the event of a 50- or 100-year flood.

"More flooding is inevitable," said Brattstrom. "Before the corps moves to lessen the severity of potential flood damage to this area, it will study the environmental effects of damming."

"The problem in Southern California is that we are built on a great flood plain," explained Brattstrom.

Built in 1941, the Prado dam and levees won't be able to hold a major flood. The corps proposes to build the dam higher and to construct a second dam at Mentone above Prado.

In January Brattstrom and 10 of his students began an environmental impact report on the animals in the threatened areas.

"In the Prado area, there are two rare and endangered bird species, the yellow-billed cuckoo and the Bell's vireo," said Brattstrom. "If we flood the back of Prado dam, we destroy the habitat of these species."

"What we hope to determine are the needs of these animals and the possibility of providing them with habitats elsewhere," he said.

BYRON E ALLUMBAUGH
CHAIRMAN
RALPHS GROCERY

THE PRESIDENT HAS ASKED ME TO EXPRESS HIS APPRECIATION FOR YOUR DECISION TO SET A CEILING ON THE PRICES OF A WIDE VARIETY OF COMMONLY PURCHASED FOOD PRODUCTS.

UNTOLD NUMBERS OF AMERICAN CITIZENS, AS WELL AS OUR NATION AS A WHOLE, WILL DIRECTLY BENEFIT FROM YOUR DECISION. THIS IS THE KIND OF VOLUNTARY COOPERATION THAT IS NEEDED AND THAT WORKS SO MUCH BETTER THAN MANDATORY CONTROLS. ON BEHALF OF THOSE WHO CAN NOW BE ASSURED THAT THE COST OF MAINTAINING A SOUND BALANCED DIET WILL NOT INCREASE DURING THE COMING WEEKS, I COMMEND YOUR EFFORTS.

ESTHER PETERSON
SPECIAL ASSISTANT TO THE PRESIDENT
FOR CONSUMER AFFAIRS

Maybe Ralphs can't stop inflation dead in its tracks but we can sure try. That's why we've frozen prices on over 130 of our PLAIN WRAP products. Prices that already save you up to 30%* as compared to national brands. These are the very items you buy most often. The staples you use every day—like canned goods, detergents, paper products, hot dogs, juices, cookies, frozen food. This PLAIN WRAP price freeze will remain in effect at least through June 10, 1980. During this period we will not under any circumstances raise the prices of these items even if our cost goes up. However, if market conditions permit we will sell them at lower prices.

You're doing your share . . . we're doing ours.

* PLAIN WRAP Produce products are not included in the PLAIN WRAP Price Freeze because their prices are determined by crop and weather conditions from day to day. Percentage savings will vary depending upon items compared at Ralphs. Compare quality, value and savings.

In this Italian dish, Patate e Piselli con Vongole, potatoes and peas are topped with canned red clam sauce from your supermarket. Both red and white sauces are delicious and in the true Italian tradition of sauces. They really give vegetables a new zip.

Red and white versions

Clam sauce tops on vegetables

Canned clam sauces — both red and white versions — which are so delicious on pasta, add "meaty" flavor to other foods as well. They're also fitting partners with rice (Risotto con Vongole) and delicious served as a sauce over vegetables.

The red and white clam sauces, available canned in your supermarket, are true to the Italian tradition of sauces. According to the experts, an authentic white clam sauce is a thin, brothy mixture which emphasizes the natural clam and garlic flavors. Red clam sauce has more of the body expected in a tomato-type sauce, but is not overly thick.

Patate e Piselli con Vongole (Potatoes and Peas with Clams) is one of the vegetable preparations which are easy to make with canned clam sauce. First, cook quartered potatoes. Then combine red clam sauce, peas and basil and let simmer briefly. Spoon the clam mixture over the potatoes and sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. A nice change from pasta.

A switch-off from Eggplant Parmigiana is Melanzane con Salsa di Vongole (Eggplant with Clam Sauce). The eggplant is cut into slices, then dipped in Italian style bread crumbs. The slices are fried on both sides in olive oil until tender and golden, and served with white clam sauce spooned over them.

Patate e Piselli con Vongole (Potatoes and Peas with Clams)

2 pounds potatoes, pared and quartered (about 3 cups)
1 cup fresh peas or 1 can (8½ oz.) peas, drained
1 can (10½ oz.) red clam spaghetti sauce
½ teaspoon basil leaves, crushed
Grated Parmesan cheese
Simmer potatoes and fresh peas in boiling salted water until tender, about 10 minutes. Drain; place in a serving bowl; cover to keep warm. In a small saucepan combine clam sauce, basil and canned peas, if used. Simmer, covered, for 3 minutes. Spoon clam mixture over reserved potatoes. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Yield: 4 to 6 portions (about 4 cups).

Melanzane con Salsa di Vongole (Eggplant with Clam Sauce)

1 can (10½ oz.) white clam spaghetti sauce
1 cup Italian style bread crumbs
½ teaspoon salt
1 medium eggplant (1½ lb.), peeled
½ cup olive oil, divided
Drain clam sauce, reserving clams and sauce separately; set aside. In a shallow dish or pie pan mix bread crumbs and salt. Cut eggplant into ¼-inch thick slices; dip in reserved clam sauce and coat with bread crumb mixture. Save remaining clam sauce for later use. In a large skillet heat 3 tablespoons of the olive oil until hot. Add one-third of the eggplant and fry until browned on both sides and tender, about 5 minutes. Remove and keep warm. Repeat with remaining eggplant, adding more oil as needed. Meanwhile, in a small saucepan mix reserved clams and remaining sauce. Heat until hot. Serve over eggplant. Yield: 4 portions.

Eat oranges naturally

Naturally yours. The ORANGE.

Most of us seem to think we know all about the orange. But do we? Is an orange really good for you? For instance, a six-ounce glass of freshly squeezed orange juice is equal to the amount of carbohydrates that you'd get in one potato. That's nothing to worry about if you're not counting carbohydrates. Think about drinking a quart of fresh orange juice each day — you'd be ingesting the equivalent of six potatoes. Think twice before you drink reconstituted orange juice. It's not the real thing. Or powdered orange juice substitutes that are supposed to be "just like the real thing." Those two substitutes are not only imitations, but they are unable to give you the same nourishment or vitamin count that fresh oranges do.

Back in 1873, seedless oranges were imported from Brazil to California and that started an entire new agricultural industry.

Try homemade mushroom soups as treats for all seasons

There was a time, not too long ago, when fresh mushrooms were considered a luxury, a rich man's dish, served occasionally at special dinners to special people. Because of the difficulty of growing mushrooms, they were only produced in a few states, and perishability limited their distribution. Now they're grown in 27 states and are available year 'round.

The elegance of homemade mushroom soups, for example, no longer need to be put off for champagne suppers or birthday banquets. Their place on today's menus is both continuing and affordable, and their presence can lend importance as well as taste to everyday meals.

One heartwarming version is Viennese Mushroom Rice Soup, which uses a rich beefy broth as a base. Tomatoes, onions and carrots are added and simmered slowly for an hour. Then the fresh mushrooms are added with the rice for the last half-hour. The meaty bones are then removed and the meat cut into cubes.

Today's Mushroom Onion Soup is a rich, beefy French Onion Soup — with pizzazz. The mushrooms are sauteed right along with the sliced onions. Beef broth, white wine and Worcestershire are stirred in and the soup simmered for 15 minutes.

Viennese Mushroom Rice Soup
1 pound fresh mushrooms

¼ cup salad oil
2 pounds short ribs or beef soup meat and bones
¾ cup chopped onion
1 cup sliced carrots
7 cups water
2 cans (16 oz.) whole tomatoes, crushed
3½ teaspoons salt
1½ teaspoon marjoram leaves, crushed
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
½ cup regular cooking rice (uncooked)
½ cup chopped parsley

Rinse, pat dry and slice mushrooms (makes about 5½ cups); set aside. In a large saucepan or Dutch oven heat oil until hot. Add meat with bones; brown on all sides. Add onion and carrots; saute for 5 minutes. Stir in water, tomatoes, salt, marjoram and black pepper; bring to a boil. Reduce heat; simmer, covered for 1 hour. Add mushrooms and rice; simmer, covered, 30 minutes longer. Remove meat and bones from soup; remove meat from bones and cut into 1-inch cubes. Return meat to soup; add parsley. Heat until soup is hot. Serve with dumplings, if desired. Yield: about 3 quarts.

Mushroom Onion Soup
12 ounces fresh mushrooms
¼ cup butter or margarine
1½ cups thinly sliced onions
4 cups beef broth or bouillon

½ cup water
2 tablespoons dry white wine
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
½ teaspoon ground black pepper

Rinse, pat dry and slice mushrooms (makes about 4½ cups); set aside. In a large saucepan melt butter. Add onions; saute until soft, about 15 minutes. Add mushrooms; continue to saute for 5 minutes. Stir in beef broth, water, wine, Worcestershire sauce and black pepper; bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer, covered, for 15 minutes. Sprinkle with grated Parmesan cheese, if desired. Yield: 6 cups.

Gourmet delight!

Meal for two in microwave

A meal for two? That's no problem when you combine your microwave with two serving, time-saving recipes. After a long day's work, "Artichoke Scramble" is a gourmet's delight! Accompany with individual "Herbed Baked Tomato Cups." It's a quick, yet satisfying and elegant, supper for two.

When cooking "Artichoke Scramble" in the microwave, remember to remove it from the oven before it is completely cooked. Set the egg aside to complete cooking, while the prepared tomato cups bake in the microwave. Your vegetable and entree will be perfectly timed!

Artichoke Scramble (Makes 2 servings)
1 (4 oz.) can artichoke hearts
2 tablespoons butter
4 eggs
Pinch garlic powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons milk
1/4 cup grated Cheddar cheese

Cut artichoke hearts into eighths. Melt butter in 9-inch glass pie plate, 45 seconds, on FULL POWER. In medium bowl, beat eggs with garlic, salt, pepper and milk. Pour into prepared pie plate. Cover with plastic wrap and cook 3 minutes on SIMMER/DEFROST, stirring half-way through cooking time. Stir in artichokes and cook, covered, 2 minutes on SIMMER/DEFROST, stirring half-way through cooking time. Remove from oven. Stir in cheese. Cover and let set 1 to 2 minutes before serving. Eggs will be moist but will continue to cook after removing from oven.

Herbed Baked Tomatoes (Makes 2 servings)
2 large fresh tomatoes
1 tablespoon parmesan cheese
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 teaspoon oregano
1/4 teaspoon basil
2 tablespoons bread crumbs
1 tablespoon butter, divided
Core and slice top off each tomato. Arrange in individual glass custard cups. In small bowl, combine parmesan cheese, seasonings and bread crumbs. Sprinkle mixture over cut side of tomatoes.

Do you wonder why your hard-cooked eggs have green rings around the yolks? The rings are a by-product of a chemical reaction between the iron and sulfur in the eggs and are usually caused by overcooking the eggs. Proper cooking and immediate cooling will help eliminate the unsightly but harmless rings.

your mornings less frantic, too. Properly prepared and stored in airtight containers to prevent drying out, they'll keep safely for up to three weeks.

"A frozen sandwich, added to the lunch box at the last minute, will be thawed and ready to eat by noon," she pointed out. "Meanwhile, it helps keep other items cool and appetizing."

You can freeze almost any kind of sandwich, except those containing raw vegetables, hard-cooked egg whites, fruit jellies or preserves, and mayonnaise or salad dressing.

For best results, be sure to coat both slices of bread with softened butter or margarine. This prevents fillings from soaking in and making sandwiches soggy.

Chicago (NFS) — Packing lunch — box meals that are not only nutritious, but also attractive and fun to eat, can be a real challenge. If carry-out lunches are your responsibility, you may want to consider a few ideas from Pauling Church, home service advisor for a housewares manufacturer. She suggests planning dinner menus with lunch boxes in mind, so extra portions of suitable foods can be prepared without extra fuss.

"Individual servings of a special dessert or salad can be refrigerated in covered plastic containers and tucked into lunch boxes the next day without fear of spilling or crushing," she explained.

Golden State Fried Won Ton is a study of delicate flavor and texture balances. Crisp won ton skins and water chestnuts contrast pleasingly with the delicate texture of a surprise ingredient — California ripe olives. It's something a bit different but combines two of the state's heritages, Chinese food and olives.

Delicate balances

East and West meet in a wok

The Chinese who arrived on our Western shore before the turn of the century brought with them a heritage that was enhanced by innovative cuisine. Noted for delicate balances of one flavor against another, Chinese cookery can assimilate many foods that were never available until California took this masterful cuisine to heart.

Golden State Fried Won Ton is a study of delicate flavor and texture balances. Crisp won ton skins and water chestnuts contrast pleasingly with the delicate texture of a surprise ingredient: California ripe olives.

These delicate tidbits can be utilized as an appetizer or as an entree just by changing sauces. An added plus is that they can be fried days in advance of serving and frozen for a lazy day meal or unexpected neighborhood get-together. Just spread them on a cookie sheet and reheat in a 400 degree oven for about 10 minutes.

Golden State Fried Won Ton
2 cups pitted California ripe olives
1/2 cup minced celery
1/4 cup minced green onion
1 tablespoon oil
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 can (6 ounces) water chestnuts, drained, rinsed and chopped
1 teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon curry powder
1 teaspoon soy sauce
1 package (12 ounce) won ton skins*
Oil for deep frying

Chop ripe olives finely. Sauté celery and onion in 1 tablespoon oil until vegetables are limp. Add cornstarch and stir. Remove from heat. Add olives, water chestnuts, curry powder and soy sauce. Stir until ingredients are well blended. To shape won ton, place 1 teaspoon olive mixture in center of won ton skin. Moisten edges of skin with water and bring opposite corners together to form a triangle. Press edges to seal. Moisten one corner of fold and press onto other corner. Repeat until all won ton skins are filled. Deep fry at 375 degrees for about 3 minutes or until rich golden brown. Drain on paper towels. Makes about 60 won ton.

TO SERVE: For an entree, serve about 10 won ton topped with heated prepared sweet and sour sauce. For an appetizer, serve with plum sauce and hot mustard sauce for dipping.

* Won ton skins can be found in the refrigerated or freezer section of your market.

Chilly weather calls for soup

An 18th century sage once said "Of soup and love, the first is best." And through most romantics would disagree, who can refute the fact that soup does warm the heart.

With time and money being the precious commodities they are today, woe to the housewife who overlooks soup's ability to save minutes and dollars. And nutritionally speaking, soup provides 'more for less' of nearly every ingredient. With cooler days ahead, test kitchens feature two newly developed soup recipes to share with you.

Creamy Chicken Soup
4 cups water
1 tablespoon minced onion
2 teaspoons salt

boasts a velvety smooth base easily thickened with instant potato flakes. This simple trick eliminates the task of making a white sauce and takes no time at all. The frozen chopped broccoli is high in vitamins and all ready to add to the soup.

For a well-balanced supper serve either soup with warm bran muffins, a citrus salad, and ice cream with coffee or tea.

Creamy Chicken Soup
1 to 2 pounds chicken pieces
4 cups water
1 tablespoon minced onion
2 teaspoons salt

1 can (13-oz.) evaporated milk
1 cup mashed potato flakes

1 package (10-oz.) frozen chopped broccoli

Combine chicken, water, onion, and salt in large pan. Cover and simmer 40 to 50 minutes, until tender.

Remove skin and bones from chicken; cut meat in bite-size pieces. Add to chicken stock along with milk, potato flakes, and broccoli. Heat, uncovered, about 10 minutes, or until soup is piping hot. Do not boil. 6 to 8 servings.

Beefy Main Dish Soup
1/2 pound round steak

1 tablespoon oil or shortening
4 cups water
2 cups tomato juice
1 cup diced raw carrots
1 envelope (1 1/2-oz.) spaghetti sauce mix
2 cups chopped cabbage
1/2 cup shell or elbow macaroni

Cut meat into small cubes; brown in oil in large pan. Pour off excess fat. Add water, tomato juice, carrots, and contents of seasoning mix envelope. Cover; simmer 40 minutes. Add cabbage and macaroni; simmer 10 to 15 minutes longer, until tender. 6 to 8 servings.

Fish fan club

Lemon adds zest to microwave dishes

There's good news for members of the fresh lemon and fish fan club. As fall varieties of fish and seafood appear in local markets, greater supplies of fresh lemons will be available at lower prices. The new crop of western desert lemons is arriving just in time to hook up with your favorite fish or seafood.

Food from the sea has been a popular menu item since the days of the early Greeks, Romans and seafood-loving Vikings. No one knows when someone squeezed the first lemon over cooked fish, but whenever it happened, two great taste-mates were born. Today few people serve or eat fish or seafood without adding the tang and spark of fresh squeezed lemon juice.

Fish and seafood cookery has become more sophisticated as the variety of species in local markets increases and new methods of preparation are developed. Many varieties lend themselves to microwave cooking, providing quick, easy entrees for family or guests. Here are a few microwave recipes from test kitchens. They combine tasty, nutritious foods of the sea with the aromatic, flavorful fresh lemon.

Lemon vegetable fish supreme
1 package (1 pound) frozen cod, sole or haddock
Grated peel and juice of 1/2 fresh lemon
1 medium tomato, diced
1 cup shredded unpeeled zucchini
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon dried tarragon, crushed
Dash pepper

1 tablespoon butter or margarine
Lemon cartwheel twists
MICROWAVE — High Power Setting:
With serrated knife (using a sawing motion), cut frozen fish into 4 serving-size pieces. In lightly buttered 8-inch square glass baking dish, arrange fish. Cover with waxed paper; defrost following owner's microwave manual. Sprinkle fish with lemon juice. Cook, covered, on high power for 4 minutes. Meanwhile, combine tomato, zucchini, lemon peel, salt, herbs and pepper. Spoon over fish; dot with butter. Cook, covered, 3 minutes or until fish flakes easily with fork. Let stand, covered, 4 minutes. Garnish with lemon cartwheel twists. Makes 4 servings.

To bake in oven: Proceed as above to cut fish into serving-size pieces. Do not defrost. Arrange fish in lightly buttered 8-inch square baking dish; sprinkle with lemon juice. Cover with foil. Bake at 450 degrees F. for 25 minutes. Combine vegetable mixture as above. Spoon over fish; dot with butter. Bake, covered, 8 to 10 minutes longer or until fish flakes easily with fork. Garnish as above.

Fish 'n' rice for 4
1 1/2 cups quick-cooking rice
1/4 cup shredded carrot
1/4 cup thinly sliced celery
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 1/2 teaspoons instant chicken bouillon
Grated peel of 1 fresh lemon
1/4 teaspoon poultry seasoning
1 1/2 cups boiling water
4 sole or haddock fillets

(about 1 pound)
Juice of 1/2 fresh lemon
Paprika
Salt (optional)

MICROWAVE — High Power Setting:
In 12x8x2-inch glass baking dish, combine rice, carrot, celery, 1 tablespoon butter, bouillon, lemon peel and poultry seasoning; stir in boiling water. Cook, covered with waxed paper, for 3 minutes. Uncover; stir rice. Arrange fish over rice (placing smaller pieces in center); sprinkle with lemon juice, paprika, salt and dot with remaining 1 tablespoon butter. Cook, covered, 8 to 10 minutes or until fish flakes easily with fork. Let stand, covered, 4 minutes. Garnish with lemon wedges and parsley, if desired. Makes 4 servings.

To bake in oven: Proceed as above to combine rice mixture with boiling water. Cover with foil. Bake at 400 degrees F. for 5 minutes. Remove from oven; stir. Arrange fish over rice; sprinkle with lemon juice, paprika, salt and dot with remaining 1 tablespoon butter. Bake, covered, 25 minutes longer or until fish flakes easily with fork. Garnish as above.

Here's a sauce to serve over baked, broiled, poached or microwaved fish.

Lemony lyonnaise sauce
1/4 cup finely chopped onion
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 tablespoon flour
1 teaspoon instant chicken bouillon
Generous dash pepper
3/4 cup water
1 egg yolk, well beaten
Grated peel and juice of 1/2 fresh lemon
1 tablespoon chopped

parsley
MICROWAVE — High Power Setting:
In 2-cup glass measure, cook onion in butter until tender (approx. 3 minutes), stirring once. Stir in flour, bouillon and pepper. Gradually blend in water, egg yolk, lemon peel and juice. Cook, uncovered, until thickened (approx. 3 minutes), stirring twice. Stir in parsley. Makes about

Junk food myth is criticized

By LEW SCARR
Copley News Service
So-called junk foods are perfectly all right so long as the diet as a whole is balanced, according to one of the nation's leading nutritionists.

"There is no such thing as junk food, just junk diets," Dr. Robert E. Olson said. "You can eat candy, potato chips and drink soft drinks containing sugar, and so long as you eat from the four basic food groups, you'll be all right."

"There is no such thing as bad food unless it's infected, contaminated or fermented by an organism," he said in an interview. Olson is chairman of the department of medicine, St. Louis University, and president of the National Nutrition Consortium. He has published more than 180 papers in the fields of biochemistry and nutrition.

He is sharply critical of health-food purveyors, who, he believes, are appealing to the disillusionment of the Vietnam War generation, young people looking for something to replace the scientific values they now disown.

and this has provided a fertile environment for accepting the claims of all those preachers of natural foods.

"They have become impervious, many of them, to advice from people like me, so they buy their health food and take a lot of vitamin C and vitamin E."

Olson said the only indication for supplemental vitamins is for a person who may be trying to reduce and is on a low-energy diet. In those cases, he said a single, multiple-vitamin tablet a day may be all right.

"But for the average person, a balanced diet with the four basic food groups (milk, meat, vegetables and fruits and breads and cereals) is sufficient and there is no need to buy high-powered vitamin capsules."

Olson is critical of persons who want to eliminate candy bars at schools.

"I think that is going at it the wrong way," he said. "It is prohibition and we know that prohibition doesn't work."

"The best way is to educate children and teachers and parents about sound diets and balanced selection of foods."

Stir frying is an ideal way of making small portions of meat and vegetables go a long way according to home economists. The trick is to cut the ingredients into small pieces and cook them until tender. Stir frying is an American cooking method combining the best elements of two traditional Chinese techniques.

Try stir frying for pace change

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. — Stir-frying is a cooking technique renowned for supplementing small portions of meat or poultry with a variety of vegetables creating Oriental dishes that are economical, easy to prepare and tasty.

"Stir-frying in the strictest sense," says Pauline Hein, home economist, "is an American cooking method combining the best elements of two traditional Chinese techniques."

"It is closely related to 'Chao' and 'Pon,'" she says. "Chao is a classic Chinese cooking method of hot-frying ingredients in a small amount of oil over a very hot fire. Pon is identical to Chao except that ingredients are fried in a sauce instead of oil."

Stir frying has caught on in many American homes, Ms. Hein says, because it creates quick, nutritious dishes which are in vogue with our health-conscious lifestyle.

The basic principle involved in stir-frying is to seal in vital juices of meat and poultry and to cook vegetables only until tender - crisp and crunchy.

Ingredients in stir-fry recipes must be stirred constantly to avoid overcooking, hence the name, Miss Hein says.

One of the secrets of the technique is that meat and vegetables are cut in uniform, small pieces.

Oriental Beef And Tomato

1/4 cup soy sauce
1-2 garlic cloves, crushed
2 tablespoons cider vinegar

1 tablespoon sugar
1 tablespoon Worcestershire
1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
1 lb. round steak, very thinly sliced
4 tablespoons oil
1 cup sliced celery
1 medium onion cut into 2-inch pieces
1 cup green pepper strips
3 tablespoons cornstarch
1 cup chicken broth
2 cups tomato wedges
1 can (8 1/2 oz.) water chestnuts, sliced
1 can (16 oz.) bean sprouts, drained

Make a marinade of the first six ingredients. Place the steak in a shallow dish and add the marinade. Allow the beef to marinate at least 30 minutes. Meanwhile, prepare vegetables.

In a large skillet or wok, heat two tablespoons oil. Remove steak from marinade (reserve marinade) and place in skillet or wok, quickly stirring and frying until desired doneness. Remove meat and any juices to a plate. In the same skillet or wok heat two tablespoons more oil. Add celery, onion and green pepper and saute until tender - crisp. Return steak and juices to skillet or wok along with reserved marinade. Stir cornstarch into chicken broth and add to skillet, stirring until mixture thickens. Stir in tomato wedges, water chestnuts and bean sprouts and heat thoroughly. Serve over Chinese noodles or hot cooked rice. Makes 4-6 servings.

Hearty beef dishes

Beef 'N Broccoli

1 pound beef flank steak*
3/4 pound broccoli (about 1/2 head)
4 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 medium onion, cut into narrow wedges
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup beef broth
2 tablespoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons soy sauce
1/4 teaspoon monosodium glutamate
1 cup bean sprouts, fresh or canned

Cut flank steak across grain into thin slices. Cut slices into 3-inch lengths. Cut broccoli into flowerettes leaving about 1-inch stalk on each. Cut pieces into lengthwise slices about 1/2-inch thick. Cut remaining stalk into 1/2-inch thick crosswise slices. Broccoli should measure about 2 cups. Stir fry beef in 2 tablespoons oil in large skillet over high heat about 2 minutes. Transfer beef to plate. Add remaining oil to skillet. Add broccoli, onion and salt. Cover and cook over high heat about 2 minutes, shaking skillet often for even cooking. Combine beef broth, cornstarch, soy sauce and monosodium glutamate, stir into hot vegetables. Add beef and bean sprouts. Cook, stirring until sauce boils and thickens. Serve at once. Makes 4 servings.

Barbecued Beef Liver Steak

California Marinade
2 pounds beef liver in one piece, about 2-inches thick
Pour marinade over liver. Cover and refrigerate overnight. Remove from marinade and place on rack over hot coals. Grill 10 to 12 minutes per side for rare, 15 minutes for medium well. Turn once. Baste once or twice with marinade. Liver should not be overcooked. It is done when pink in the middle and crusty on outside. Cut into 1/4-inch crosswise slices. Makes 6 servings.

California Marinade: Combine 1 cup beef broth, 1 1/2 cups dry red wine, 2 tablespoons oil, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 cup chopped onion, 1/2 cup minced parsley, 1 teaspoon thyme, 1 teaspoon oregano,

1/2 teaspoon tarragon and 1/2 teaspoon salt. Bring to boil then simmer 2 minutes.

Alcoholism now called epidemic

By DARLA WELLES
Copley News Service
The disease has reached epidemic proportions. One of its ugliest and most noticeable symptoms is violence.

Another, more insidious, is the loss of productive effort. It causes a broad range of physical ills and early death.

The disease is the paired problem of alcoholism and alcohol abuse. And it's rampant in today's society, says Dr. George Lundberg, chairman of the Department of Pathology at the University of California at Davis.

Lundberg labels the problem an epidemic, saying that it probably afflicts twice as many Americans as conventional statistics indicate.

Lundberg suggests the number may be as high as 15 million to 20 million rather than the 10 million figure more commonly used.

His estimate, he says, includes not only diagnosed adult alcoholics but also teen-agers and adults who regularly overindulge.

Many of those are what he calls members of SOFA — the society of functioning alcoholics. These are people, he says, who are able to maintain jobs or attend classes or otherwise carry out their roles in society, but who have very real problems with alcohol — problems that will eventually threaten their abilities to earn their livings or even to live.

Lundberg says the problem has grown dramatically during the last 15 years. And though he says he has no pat explanations for its rapid acceleration, not any surefire cures, he does have a warning.

The problem is serious. When all the ramifications of alcoholism and alcohol abuse are lumped together, he says, they become the third leading cause of death in the United States.

Those ramifications include murder, suicide, accidental deaths and a host of alcohol-related diseases, he says.

And beyond those death figures, Lundberg says, alcohol abuse causes an inestimable amount of physical injury through such violence as fighting, wife-beating and child abuse, as well as causing many non-fatal but debilitating illnesses.

And he says the problem costs money in terms of time lost from work and lower productivity on the job.

He says the problem is aggravated by alcohol being accessible, relatively inexpensive and having its use readily accepted by society.

But he doesn't really think that limiting alcohol's accessibility, raising prices or outright prohibiting its sale will provide solutions. Such efforts haven't worked in the past, he notes.

Lundberg speculates that the best approach will be early detection and aggressive treatment aimed at helping people break the pattern of alcohol abuse before it robs them of their livelihoods or lives.

The Australian branch of the World Wildlife Fund is providing $44,000 for research into the Tasmanian tiger, a wolflike marsupial thought to be extinct. Recent sighting reports will be examined. The last documented Tasmanian tiger died in 1934 in the zoo at Hobart, Tasmania.

A lighter view

Changing times require changes in investments

By MICHAEL GRANT
Copley News Service

Anyone paying the least bit of mind to the economy knows that investment will become the industry of the 1980s, the same way fitness was the industry of the 1970s.

The reason for this is simple. People hear that the economy is going to have a heart attack, and they are afraid it will kill them. Where investment once was the afternoon pastime of tycoons, stock clerks now are eager to learn how to use it as a hedge against disaster.

Already the rush has begun to get this information into the stock clerks' hands. Among the country's best - sellers is "How To Prosper During The Coming Bad Years."

And, of course, the old bookseller's ingenuity is at work. Teaching someone the finer points of investing no longer means merely educating them in the ways of stocks and bonds. It means showing them how to recognize and collect rare swizzle sticks, how to finance shoes, how to get Grandpa's gold bridgework through probate.

It is to be expected, in such a fertile climate, that the layman would come up with some startling ideas of his own. Nevertheless, I was unprepared the other afternoon when my friend Bredrum called and asked me to help drive his new cars home.

"You bought two new cars?" I asked, surprised, because Bredrum and I often compared budgets.

"Yep," he giggled. "Hee, hee. Now I can put the kids through college!"

I met him at the dealership and followed him home in the second car. It was identical to the first, color and all. He parked out front and motioned me to drive Car No. 2 into the garage.

"Now help me put it up on blocks," he grinned. He was fairly bubbling.

"What is this?" I said.

"One of the best investments you'll ever make, buddy boy," he said. "Look in here." He tipped a box toward me. It was full of spare radio antennas, outside rear-view mirrors, hubcaps and spark plugs.

"Be amazed what the dealer will throw in when you buy two cars. And I got a break on the price, plus two rebates! Cookie and I can take a vacation in Acapulco!"

"But this car must have cost $8,000," I said.

"So what?" he sang, bending over a jack. "It'll be paid for in three years, and from then on, it's easy street! She's my good old 4.8 factor!" Bredrum looked up from the jack and planted a noisy kiss on the car's fender.

"4.8 factor?" I said.

"Look at this." He fished a newspaper clipping from a pocket and thrust it at me. It was a dispatch concerning a convention of automobile insurance executives. Someone had done a study showing that it would cost $26,418 to replace all the parts on a standard 1979 car that cost $5,741 new. It worked out to a ratio of 4-to-8.

"These are my spare parts for the next 10 years!" Bredrum crowed.

It began to dawn on me. I remembered the time he'd run into a cow one Sunday afternoon and didn't want to tell the insurance company about it and had to take out a lien on the house to get the front end fixed.

"Kiddies all gonna go to school," he trilled, keeping time to the clicks of the jack.

"Lookit!" he squeaked. His hand was closed around a shock absorber. "You know how much these are gonna save me in 1985! You have any idea what a new fuel pump will cost then?"

"You better keep the garage locked," I said.

He smiled, hearing the admiration in my voice.

I thought about that. It has been almost 10 years since I bought my car. Its odometer had read 67,043 since 1975, when I unhooked the speedometer, because of a malfunction in its gears. It went "tick-tick-tick," and after three weeks of that it was either me or it. I have not had a new one installed because I have not been able to find a week where my family could go without food.

I watched Bredrum whistling while he worked, and envied his acumen and incumbent security. "Hey," he sang, "funny Chrysler hadn't thought of this, huh? Four cars in every garage."

NASA looks into near-misses of aircraft over California

By JOE HUGHES
Copley News Service

MOUNTAIN VIEW — Was it a hit or a miss? Government scientists here studying the cause of midair collisions only are interested in the misses — air-plane accidents that almost happen.

Over recent weeks — even recent days — scientists from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Ames Research Center have had their hands full.

From San Diego, Los Angeles and other Southern California areas, there has been a spate of reports of planes coming close to each other, in the air and on the ground.

The federal government was so concerned with the apparent increase in such sightings that it called its NASA near - miss experts back to Washington, D.C., to explain what was going on to another government agency, the Federal Aviation Administration.

For reasons that may become clear, the government has entrusted the studying of near-misses to NASA, not the FAA. NASA has operated its Northern California near-miss reporting station since 1975.

In that time, NASA has investigated hundreds of near-miss reports filed under a voluntary, anonymous program by pilots, air traffic controllers and even airline passengers.

The reports come here to Ames, near Moffett Field, north of San Jose, where NASA scientists, using equipment developed for outer as well as inner space, follow them up.

The reports then are forwarded to the FAA in Washington because it is the FAA, not NASA, that is charged with the nation's air safety.

NASA was selected to perform this task because the government decided air safety was a top priority and a "disinterested" third party was needed to fathom the near-miss dilemma. The FAA, which regulates as well as polices the industry, was left out of the program because of built-in conflicts.

Additionally, NASA had been studying near - misses since 1970, when it first addressed the problem in a report that warned then that the aircraft collision problem seriously threatened the safe and orderly expansion of aviation in the United States.

NASA didn't stop there. Researcher Henry Anderton underlined the 1970 report by saying "stopgap measures were immediately needed to protect lives and expensive equipment."

Anderton said development of a collision avoidance system, pilot warning indicators and restricted use of airspace must be required.

43 to 500 percent

Mark-up on vitamins varies

By SHIRLEY BRIGHT BOODY
Registered Dietitian
Copley News Service

Are you willing to spend $50 on a 50-cent product that you know little or nothing about, that you probably do not need, and will do little or nothing for you?

In a drug trade journal report, last year, it revealed the mark-up on vitamins ranged from an average of 43 percent in most drugstores to 350 and 500 percent in health food stores.

Vitamins and food supplements accounted for an annual $1.2 billion in annual sales, a big money maker with a fast turnover for the sellers.

In 1976 a bill, endorsed by Sen. William Proxmire of Wisconsin, was effective in destroying control regulations in the marketing of vitamins and food supplements.

The bill prohibited the Food and Drug Administration from requiring that dietary supplements really contain the nutritionally essential vitamins and minerals, or that the products omit "useless ingredients with no nutritional values."

What a field day for nutritional quacks! Everything from sawdust to sand could be bottled and sold as a food supplement. The only stipulation being that false health claims could not be put on the label, nor used in advertising of the product.

That limp safeguard is an illusion, because under the constitutional protection of freedom of speech and press, anyone can say or write anything, no matter how erroneous, misleading, deceptive or harmful the information.

A case in point demonstrates the extent of the dangers of nutritional misinformation. An actress in California had to stop her career because she became ill and incapacitated. After several months, physicians could not find the cause of her illness. She finally suggested the diagnosis herself. After reading some medical literature on lead poisoning, it occurred to her that she was a possible victim.

She was right. It turned out that she had been taking a bone-meal supplement for the last six years.

Why did she take it in the first place? She was totally misinformed and misled. She thought she was helping herself.

Deaths from the overuse of potassium chloride, another supplement, have occurred because of misuse. Several essential vitamins and minerals can be poisonous when overused. Vitamin A and D, selenium, iron and calcium can cause some problems,
